REDS FLY OVER CARRIERS

—DEMANDS LOWERED—

U. S. Altering Ban Proposal

Washington (AP) — The United States is drawing up a new treaty to ban nuclear weapons tests which contains lowered demands being offered to Russia for inspections on her territory.

This announcement was coupled Thursday with an adstatement that the chances of a sneak Soviet atomic test series without detection "are vanishingly small."

Jacob D. Beam, an assistant director of the U.S. Disarmament Agency, spelled out the Kennedy administration's defense of its test ban effort in a speech in Rochester, N. Y.

Progress

Beam described reduced inspection demands as "a concession . . . to scientific progress, not to the Soviet Union."

Announcing the drafting of the new proposed treaty, State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said U.S. negotiators at the Geneva Disarmament conference would offer it there to supersede the U. S. draft treaty proposed last August. He said just when the treaty will be presented, or if it will be offered, are not yet determined for certain.

Officials said the new version would incorporate revisions attributed to scientific advances in detection techniques and other changes in the U.S. position which have developed since last summer.

Stipulation

The new version, White said, will include the stipulation announced last week that 7 yearly on-the-spot inspections inside Russia will be sufficient to police a test ban if other safeguards are included.

This is a drop from the previous U.S. demand of 8 to 10 inspections, which in turn was preceded originally by a demand for 20 inspections.

The revised treaty disposal is also expected to omit requirements for international observers at seismic inspection stations and include provisions for unmanned, automatic "black box" seismic detectors at various points in the Soviet Union.

Spurned

The Soviets have spurned the latest Western overtures at Geneva and have offered a maximum of 3 inspections, a figure unacceptable to the West.

Despite the Geneva deadlock, U.S. authorities said the treaty is designed as a potential tool to get negotiations moving again.

Beam, a former U.S. ambassador with long experience with the Communists, noted there are "strongly held opinions" in Congress and elsewhere that a test-ban treaty under proposed conditions would be a sell-out to the Communists.

Arguments

He advanced these principal arguments in favor of a test ban:

1. The U.S. nuclear arsenal is superior to Russia's. Further atomic testing would mean only small weapons improvement for the United States. It would benefit the Soviets more. If testing is continued, the Soviets could catch up; but if it is stopped, this country would remain ahead.

2. Even if Communist China and France did not adhere to a test ban at the start, a U.S.-Soviet agreement would at least prevent or delay a dozen or so other nations from acquiring nuclear arms.

Improved

3. Scientific advances have improved detection to the point where primary reliance on spotting atomic explosions inside the Soviet Union can be placed on U.S. detection devices located outside Russian territory.

4. The wide scope of other detection facilities, ranging from the black boxes to Western intelligence, strongly reinforces the national detection system based on seismic listening gear around Soviet borders.

5. The Soviets might be able to set off a secret explosion in a large underground cave or millions of miles out into space. But a single sneak test would do them little good, since a series is usually needed for nuclear research.

Chances Small

"The chances of the Soviet Union conducting a series of tests which would remain undetected are vanishingly small," Beam said. "The probability that the advantage to be gained from a single test would be sufficient to make an attempted evasion worthwhile, is also vanishingly small."

6. Through on-site inspections, the United States has the "adversary's choice" of determining where and when to conduct an inspection inside Russia. This would complicate any Red attempts at concealment.

7. The United States will keep its nuclear weapons laboratories in being ready to renew tests, after a treaty is signed, so little time would be lost in the arms race if the Russians should break the ban.

Long-Range Checks New

. . . U.S. NOT TOO WORRIED

Washington (AP)—Soviet long-range reconnaissance planes have been flying over U. S. aircraft carriers in the Atlantic and North Pacific during the past 4 weeks, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday.

The latest look-see was made over the supercarrier Forrestal last Friday southeast of the Azores, McNamara told a news conference. But he said in none of the instances did the Russian planes show any hostile intent.

In the case of the planes which flew over the Forrestal — two 4-engine planes two hours or so apart — they were trailed by U.S. interceptor planes on their approach to the carrier, and on the trip home.

Flat 'No'

The defense chief was asked if any of the reconnaissance craft had operated over the North American continent. He replied with a flat "no!"

McNamara said flights over naval craft by short-range and medium-range Russian planes are not unusual but that overflights by long-range planes are new.

He acknowledged that "we periodically overfly Soviet vessels," describing the practice as a "perfectly legal operation over international waters."

Not Too Concerned

McNamara indicated that the United States was not too concerned about the Soviet planes approaching the carriers since they obviously were reconnaissance types, rather than bombers.

The first overflight by a long-range Soviet plane occurred Jan. 27 over the carrier Kittyhawk in the North Pacific, and this was repeated several times afterward to Feb. 3, McNamara said. The carrier Princeton was flown over in the North Pacific between Feb. 13 and 16 and the carrier Enterprise was overflown in the North Atlantic on Feb. 12 and 13, he reported.

Asked why he had waited so long to announce the flights, the defense secretary said the information came in slowly and it was decided best to wait. Initially, he said, it appeared to be an isolated instance but because of the repeated occurrences "it seems to us to be forming a pattern."

Not Difficult

Navy spokesmen told newsmen it would not be difficult for the Russian reconnaissance planes to locate the carriers. In the case of the Forrestal, they said, the Navy had announced when the big carrier would leave the Mediterranean after being replaced there by the Enterprise.

McNamara declined to calculate how far the Russian planes had flown to take a look at the carriers. But from what he said of the flights indications were that they must have traveled more than 2,000 miles each way, in the case of the Forrestal.

As to how many overflights had been made by medium and short-range Soviet reconnaissance craft, McNamara said he had no exact figure but there probably were scores last year.

N.Y. Post Bolts; Will Reopen

. . . PUBLISHER SEES NO EVIDENCE OF SETTLEMENT

New York (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy Schiff, owner of the New York Post, dramatically bolted the ranks of major New York publishers Thursday and announced she is reopening her paper on Monday.

The 161-year-old afternoon tabloid is one of 9 major New York dailies which have been blacked out since a strike of union printers began Dec. 8. No immediate end of the strike was in sight, although renewed peace talks were scheduled for Friday.

"I think the strike has gone on long enough," Mrs. Schiff told a news conference. "I see no evidence of a settlement."

At Least One

Mrs. Schiff, who is publisher and editor-in-chief of the Post, added that she felt New York should have at least one newspaper to lighten the costly blackout. The city has been without mass circulation papers for 83 days.

In breaking with fellow publishers, Mrs. Schiff also resigned from the Publishers Association of New York, the central agency through which the newspaper executives hitherto have maintained a solid front against the striking AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

In a statement, the publishers association said Mrs. Schiff's defection "does not alter the firm determination of the other publishers in the association to continue to press for a satisfactory agreement to end the current strike."

Shelved

Earlier in the day, Mayor Robert F. Wagner had shelved plans to act as umpire in the strike. Instead, he announced that both sides had called for renewed negotiations which he scheduled for Friday.

Wagner had called this willingness to continue peace talks a . . 'glimmer of hope."

The Democratic mayor said Mrs. Schiff's announcement of the Post's reopening would not alter plans for bargaining talks. He added:

"Other publishers will attend, and the meeting will proceed as scheduled."

Not Umpire

Wagner had prepared to assume the role of umpire and propose his own non-binding settlement terms when the request for the new peace talks reached him. He then announced at city hall:

"Both sides feel that they prefer to be able to arrive at a settlement through mediation and negotiations rather than have me make a proposal at this time."

The ITU's New York Local 6 last December struck the morning Times and the Daily News, and the afternoon Journal-American and the World-Telegram and Sun in a deadlock over wages, hours and fringe benefits.

The union sought a reduction in its 36¼ hour work week to 35 hours, plus an $18 a week wage increase spread over two years. It estimated the total cost with fringe benefits of a new contract at $26.42 per man per week.

However, the publishers estimated the total cost of the ITU package at $37 per man per week. They offered the union a two-year $10 package.

Printers had been averaging $145 a week in wages.

Shortly after the strike began, the city's 5 other major dailies closed down operations. They are the Post, the morning Herald Tribune and the Mirror, and the afternoon Long Island Star-Journal and the Long Island Press. The latter continued to publish suburban editions for distribution outside the city.

CONSUMERS CUTS RATES FOR BUSINESS, INDUSTRY

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Decreases in business and industrial electric rates totaling $551,580 annually were announced Thursday by Consumers Public Power District.

Lower rates for 300 outstate communities served at retail by CPPD will become effective automatically April 1.

Proposed reductions for Lincoln, totaling $175,000 annually, will be effective "upon agreement with city officials as has been the custom through the years in joint city-Consumers negotiations," a CPPD announcement explained.

"As to Lincoln," Consumers General Manager Ray Schacht of Columbus said, "decreases, which will be accomplished without raising residential rates, will be proposed to city officials for industrial and large-use customers."

Averages 9.6%

Average rate reduction for such Lincoln customers will be 9.6%, Schacht noted.

The spread between Lincoln industrial rates as compared with Omaha "will be cut by half in most cases and by nearly three-fourths if the customer takes advantage of power factor discounts," Schacht said.

Lower rates are made possible, he noted, "through economic operations, increased use of electricity, projected benefits of Sheldon (nuclear power) Station, as well as credits received from those rate disputes now practically settled."

Follows Proposals

CPPD's announcement followed on the heels of separate Consumers and city proposals to consolidate by lease, purchase or joint operation the facilities of the two retail electric agencies within Lincoln.

The proposals have emerged from a background of legislative maneuvering over the future of public power in Nebraska, and the specific problem of unique retail electric competition within Lincoln.

Consumers also announced that it will reduce from 1.5 cents to 1.25 cents per kilowatt hour its residential electric house heating rates in the 300 outstate communities effective Oct. 1.

The same decrease was proposed for Lincoln.

CPPD's business and industrial rate decreases would total $326,575 for outstate communities in the eastern system; $50,005 in the western system, and the $175,000 proposed cut in Lincoln.

Virtually all large industrial firms in Lincoln are served by Consumers.

Comparison Made

Schacht noted that Lincoln and other CPPD communities already have lower industrial rates than most midwestern cities, including Kansas City, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Sioux City, Des Moines, St. Louis, St. Joseph, Wichita, Chicago, Indianapolis and Topeka.

Thus, the new proposal "will give even greater advantages for attracting new industry," he declared.

Rate decreases were first proposed for study by CPPD's board of directors last November when 1963 budgets were considered, he said.

The changes are a departure from past practices which previously were directed at residential rate reductions.

"There is a growing potential for industry in Nebraska," Schacht pointed out, "and Consumers will do all it can to help in this area.

'Residential Rates Low'

"Residential and small commercial rates in Lincoln are already low. Thus, we felt when the study began, that any rate changes in Lincoln should be in the industrial and other larger use categories."

Schacht also noted that Consumers has protested increased new wholesale electric rates for the 1963-66 period proposed by the Nebraska Public Power System.

"We are confident the objections raised by Consumers are sound," he said.

City To Match Change

City Light Department rates will be adjusted to any industrial or heavy-user rate changes made by Consumers Public Power District, Business Manager Woodrow Livengood said Thursday.

However, Livengood said he doubted if any of the city's customers would be affected in the rate categories reportedly being proposed by Consumers.

The city department has several "small industrial rate" users, but none in the "large industrial or heavy-user" categories served by Consumers, he explained.

League Supports Lincoln

The League of Nebraska Municipalities' special power committee Thursday voted to assist and support Lincoln on LB633 for merger of Consumers Public Power District and municipal distribution systems within the city.

Action came during a League power meeting at which Beatrice, Pierce, Wahoo, Hastings, North Platte, Grand Island, Humboldt, Nebraska City, Scottsbluff, Kearney, Aurora and Lincoln were represented.

LB633, now pending in the Legislature, provides for the merger of the consumers-municipal distribution systems and their operation until 1972 by the city.

The committee also adopted a resolution supporting the principles of LB220, but proposed some amendments for consideration at a later meeting.

LB220 would give the proposed state power review board jurisdiction within a municipality's zoning area but not within its corporate limits.

Committee Okays Hike In Liquor Tax

A $1.1 million revenue bill boosting the state excise tax on beer and liquor was advanced to the floor of the Legislature Thursday by the Revenue Committee.

The bill, LB9, as amended would boost the per gallon tax on beer from 4 to 6 cents, producing an estimated additional $485,000 in revenue each year.

The per gallon tax on liquor would be hiked from $1.20 to $1.60, yielding an estimated additional $700,000 annually.

Non Opposed

Vote to advance was 6-0.

As introduced by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, LB9 would have increased the beer tax to 8 cents a gallon and the liquor levy to $1.80. It also included proposed boosts in the excise tax on wines.

Present excise tax on liquor raises $2.1 million annually, while the current beer tax yields $971,000.

Previously advanced to the floor was Carpenter's tobacco tax measure, LB10, which — as amended — will raise an additional $3.6 million annually.

In other action, the Revenue Committee advanced to the floor LB117, amended to increase the premium tax on domestic insurance companies from four-tenths to six-tenths of one per cent.

The bill, introduced by Carpenter, originally asked an increase to one per cent. Motion to amend carried 4-2, and the measure was advanced 6-0.

The tax is applied on gross premiums of domestic insurance companies, and currently raises about $265,000 annually.

LB117 would thus raise an additional $132,000 a year.

Carpenter To Attempt Cutting Special Levies

Sen. Terry Carpenter Thursday said he will attempt to "eliminate" all special property tax levies in order to give the Legislature's Budget Committee more control over state expenditures.

Carpenter's comments came as a result of an attorney general's opinion which branded two bills designed to strengthen legislative controls as unconstitutional.

Carpenter said elimination of special levies would help "run everything in appropriations through the Budget Committee."

The Scottsbluff lawmaker suggested that the Legislature will have to eliminate the levies within 4 years anyway, "because we'll have a sales or income tax by then."

The bills, LB324 and LB325, were sponsored by Carpenter. LB324 is pending before the budget unit; LB325 was killed by the Judiciary Committee.

"If the Legislature is serious about controlling expenditures made from special levy funds," Carpenter said, "it has no recourse but to repeal the levies and make direct appropriations for specific projects."

Failure to follow this course, he declared, would mean that "this body doesn't want to do anything but give lip service to the Budget Committee."

Asked for comment on Carpenter's statement, Budget Chairman Richard Marvel of Hastings said "it is quite important that the Legislature retain control of fiscal matters, including construction costs and related operating costs."

German Ship Reports She Is Now Okay

New York, (AP)—The German freighter Adele Ohlrogge, foundering and taking on water in the storm-tossed North Atlantic, has radioed that she is out of danger, the Coast Guard reported Thursday night.

The 449-foot German freighter, with 36 crewmen aboard, had earlier reported that she was sinking. Buffeted by 35-foot-high waves and 64 m.p.h winds, she had radioed she was taking on water faster than she could pump it out.

But the Coast Guard cutter Castle Rock, which is in pursuit of the stricken vessel, radioed that she had been advised the Adele Ohlrogge was out of danger.

JFK Acts To Protect Negro Balloting Rights

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy asked Congress Thursday for unprecedented powers to safeguard Negro voting rights, including referees named to rule on voter qualifications as soon as a registrar's impartiality is challenged in federal court.

Other federal action, no matter now speedy and how drastic, Kennedy said, can never correct abuses of local and state power to curtail Negro civil rights.

The President, spelling out his first civil rights program to Congress, added:

"It is necessary instead to free the forces of our democratic system within these areas by promptly insuring the franchise to all citizens, making it possible for their elected officials to be truly responsible to all their constituents."

Federal Help

The President also called for federal help in ending school segregation and requested a 4-year extension of the Civil Rights Commission with expanded duties.

"The program outlined in this message should not provide the occasion for sectional bitterness," Kennedy said. "No state or section of this nation can pretend a self-righteous role, for every area has its own civil rights problems."

Civil rights advocates in Congress generally hailed the program as a step in the right direction. Many said it didn't go far enough.

More Difficult

The defeat of an effort to make it easier to end filibusters in the Senate will make passage of civil rights bills more difficult, a number of civil rights supporters said.

Typical of Southern reaction was that of Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., who said:

"As far as Virginia is concerned, we can get along very well without any of that new legislation."

White House officials acknowledged to reporters there is a good chance a Southern filibuster might result when the program comes up for Senate action.

Realistic

They insisted, however, that the proposals are realistic and have a good chance of being enacted.

The legislative requests are expected to be submitted within 10 days or so as three separate bills.

Kennedy said slavery has vanished in the century since the Emancipation Proclamation, but "progress for the Negro has been too often blocked and delayed."

Harmful

He said, "equality before the law has not always meant equal treatment and opportunity. And the harmful, wasteful and wrongful results of racial discrimination and segregation still appear in virtually every aspect of national life, in virtually every part of the nation."

Kennedy made two new recommendations to speed up action in voting rights cases:

—Calling for appointment of federal referees to pass on voter qualifications as soon as the suit is filed in any county where less than 15% of the eligible population of any race alleged to be discriminated against is registered to vote.

—Calling for voting right suits to be given priority treatment in federal courts, just as election suits are expedited in some state courts "on the sensible premise that, unless the right to vote can be exercised in a specific election, it is, to the extent of that election, lost forever."

Both would apply to local, state or federal elections.

Federal Votes

Kennedy had two other requests, which would apply only in federal elections:

—A specific ban on the application of different tests and standards to different people.

—A declaration that anyone who has completed the 6th grade is presumed to be literate.

NIK SUFFERS SHARP REBUFF

Washington (AP)— Soviet Premier Khrushchev has suffered a sharp rebuff in his efforts to patch up his quarrel with the Chinese Communists.

But officials studying the latest flood of words from Moscow and Peking are unwilling to conclude that a reconciliation has now become impossible.

What is evident at the moment is that the recent show of friendly gestures in the two big Communist capitals has been overrun by the bitter compilation of charges against Soviet leaders, including Khrushchev. They range from accusations of "double dealing" to complaints of betrayal of basic Communist doctrine, topped off with a demand for an apology for alleged past mistakes.

By contrast with the angry tone and bitter content of the Chinese Communist statement published in the Peking People's Daily, Khrushchev in his Moscow speech Wednesday stuck to the call for unity among the world's Communist parties, a position he emphasized at a January meeting of Communist groups in East Berlin.

American leaders are watching the development of the dispute closely at this critical and perhaps climactic stage because of its potential impact on Soviet policies toward the West.

Chinese Won't Be Servants; Fire New Volley At Soviets

Tokyo (AP) — Red China fired another round of heavy propaganda artillery at the Kremlin Thursday, accusing it of cracking the whip over world Communist leaders and defiantly rejecting any master-to-servant relationship with the Soviet party.

In the second belligerent article to appear this week, Peking accused the followers of Premier Khrushchev of provoking the split in world Communist ranks. The article, broadcast by Peking radio, clearly indicated the split is becoming ever more wide, despite Kremlin attempts to soft pedal the dispute.

"If it is a case of masters wielding batons over the heads of servants, calling for unity, then what is actually meant is split," said the article from the official Peking People's Daily.

Only Wednesday the same paper leveled a 6,000 word blast at Moscow, demanding apology for Khrushchev's attitude toward the Red Chinese. The new 6,000-word editorial appealed to the whole Communist camp to abandon Khrushchev's leadership and derided those communist leaders who danced to Khrushchev's tunes.

The article also quoted from a long exposition to be published by Red Flag, the Chinese Communist Party's theoretical journal March 4, and to be reprinted in instalments in People's Daily. Its title is "More on the Differences Between Comrade Togliatti and Us—Some Important Problems of Leninism in the Contemporary World."

Palmiro Togliatti is head of the Italian Communist Party, and a representative of the European Communist leaders who reject Peking's version of how world communism should be imposed on the world. When Peking attacks Togliatti or French Communist chief Maurice Thorez, it is actually attacking Khrushchev.

The Red Flag article will discuss the nature of the current Communist world debate, the state of the contemporary world, questions of war and peace, of the state and revolution, or strategy and tactics and of world communist unity.

Chicago Alderman Handcuffed, Slain

. . . SHADOWY CRIME SYNDICATE SUSPECTED

Chicago, (AP) — Alderman Benjamin F. Lewis, 52, a Democratic Negro power in Chicago's City Council, was found handcuffed and shot to death Thursday in his 24th Ward office.

Motives for the killing were not apparent.

There was City Hall talk that the shadowy crime syndicate had threatened Lewis with death if he did not drop out of the council. Alderman John J. Hoellen, a member of the Republican minority, suggested immediately, "the syndicate was not happy with Lewis."

Lewis was re-elected to his second term Tuesday, defeating a Republican, Jeff Clifford Alford, also a Negro, by a margin of more than 12-1.

Face Down

The slender, mustached politician was found by a janitor about 9 a.m., lying face down beside a desk in the orderly office at 3604 W. Roosevelt Road into which he had moved Feb. 15.

Dr. Andrew Toman, the coroner, said Lewis was killed about 7 a.m. by 3 closely placed shots in the back of his head, apparently as he sat handcuffed in a desk chair. Four spent cartridge casings of .32 caliber were found on the floor, apparently ejected by an automatic pistol.

Some difference of opinion as to the time of death was apparent, however, among investigators. Police indicated he might have been killed some hours earlier.

Telephoning

James H. Smith, a real estate agent whose office was near Lewis' said he heard Lewis telephoning in his office about 10 p.m., when Smith left the building.

Merlin Nygren, assistant deputy superintendent of police, said a rear door of the two-story building where the alderman was slain had been forced open, apparently by Lewis' slayer or slayers. Lewis' office was on the second floor.

Nygren said robbery apparently was not the motive because Lewis' ring and watch were in place.

Powerful

Lewis, also the Democratic committeeman of the heavily Negro ward on the Near Southwest Side, was considered by fellow council members both powerful and well-liked in the ward.

His death probably will result in a special election, but there was no successor immediately apparent. One politician, asked who was likely to be chosen, replied, "there is no one to choose. Lewis, himself, was the ward organization."

Alford said he was shocked by the killing.

Lewis' wife, Ella, said she saw her husband last at 5 p.m. Wednesday, when he told her he was going downtown to talk with some politicians. She said he did not come home during the night.

Jubilant

Lewis, one of 6 Negro aldermen, visited the Democratic Cook County headquarters in the Morrison Hotel in the early evening. The headquarters secretary, Mrs. Mary Mullen, said he was jubilant over the unofficial tabulation giving him 12,189 votes to Alford's 888.

Lewis's ward, with some 75,000 residents, formerly was predominantly Jewish. Now, about 80% of its residents are Negroes.

It was once the stronghold of Jacob M. Arvey, who climbed to power as Democratic National Committeeman and a chief in the Chicago party organization. Arvey, now semi-retired, is credited with launching the careers of Sen. Paul H. Douglas and Adlai Stevenson, former Illinois governor and now ambassador to the United Nations.

Pressure

A possible avenue of investigation lay in pressure by gambling interests for re-establishment of a once-flourishing operation in the 24th Ward. This topic was rejected by politicians, but there has been vague talk of such a move.

Lewis was a city building inspector for 3 years before he won the aldermanic election on his first try.

Tap Telephone Could Save You Five Seconds Per Call

New York, (AP) — Better brush up on your tapping technique!

Before too long, millions of Americans will be tap, tap, tapping instead of dialing when they make a telephone call.

The era of push button telephoning is rounding the corner. The concept, which dates back to 1892, has just received a final OK from Western Electric Co. officials after two years of market testing in Findlay, Ohio, and Greensburg, Pa.

"Telephoning across the U. S. A. is in for its biggest change since the beginning of the Roaring Twenties when the conversion to the dial began," the firm, which is the manufacturing arm of the nationwide Bell Telephone System, said in its employe magazine, WE.

William Sidley, assistant superintendent of Western Electric's program planning organization, estimated that within 10 years all central offices in the United States will be able to offer "touch tone service."

What's more, some 40,000 to 45,000 push button sets in most models and colors will be in use in widely scattered exchanges by the end of this year.

The new push button models have 3 rows of 3 buttons each plus a 10th "O" button centered below the bottom row. The letters and numbers line up exactly as on today's dial with no letters on the 1 and "O" buttons.

When a button is tapped, two simultaneous musical tones are generated and flashed to the central office. The tones can be heard on the receiver and are similar to those now heard when making some long distance calls. They differ from the pulses sent out by the common dial.

The main advantages of the new system are speed, ease and convenience of operations. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. estimates a number with 7 letters or numbers can be tapped out in 2 to 5 seconds compared with an average 10 seconds on the conventional dial.

Western Electric said that the results of the Findlay and Greensburg tests exceeded expectations and acceptance was almost unanimous. C. F. Benner, a Bell laboratories supervisor, said the new phones received the "highest (public) acceptance of any product I've ever seen."

There will be an extra charge for push button service, AT&T said, but the amount and frequency will vary with each telephone company.

Missouri Channel Work Ahead Of Schedule By Year

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — Work on stabilizing the Missouri River channel at 6 feet from Omaha to here is one year ahead of schedule, an official of the U.S. Army Engineers said.

"Work that we do this year will permit a 6 foot channel by 1964," said Col. Harry Woodbury, Omaha district engineer.

He said the controlling depth of river from Omaha to here is 4 feet at this time. The Omaha district expects to award 8 contracts this spring for dike and related work and one for dredging, he said.

Woodbury spoke to a meeting of the Sioux City Engineers Club.

Nebraska Ranks 2nd In Teenage Students

. . . 93.1% Of Youths In School

Washington (AP)—The National Education Association reported Thursday the percentage of Nebraska youngsters in their mid-teens enrolled in school was the second highest in the nation.

The percentage of youths ages 14 through 17 who were in school during 1960 in Nebraska was 93.1. Idaho had the same percentage and Oregon had a percentage of 93.9. The national average was 87.4.

The NEA also reported Nebraskans tend to complete more years of school than the average American.

Nebraska also is 6th lowest among the states in the percentage of Selective Service registrants failing the mental test in 1961.

The NEA survey shows that in 1960, the median number of school years completed by people 25 years old and older in Nebraska was 11.6, a full year higher than the U.S. average. Nebraska ranked 13th among states in this category. Utah, the highest, had a median of 12.2. A median is the numerical middle, not the average. It means there are as many above the figure as below it.

Nebraska's percentage of Selective Service registrants failing the mental test was 6.1 compared with the U.S. average of 23. Only 4.7% of Washington and Utah registrants failed the test, but 54.6% of those in South Carolina failed.

The NEA listed Nebraska's estimated school-age (5 through 17) population last July 1 as 349,820 and the percentage of change in this population from 1950 through 1960 as 27.6%.

Nebraska ranked 17th in personal income per school age child in 1961. The personal income figure was $8,998. The state spent $355 for each public and elementary and secondary pupil in average daily attendance for the current school year.

State Income Tax Favored By FU 122-33

. . . Berck Renamed

Grand Island (AP)— Delegates to the Nebraska Farmers Union convention Thursday opposed a state sales tax or a combination sales-income tax for Nebraska but favored a state income tax.

Berck

A count of votes among the delegates showed that the sales tax was opposed 134-34; the combination tax was opposed 134-21, but the income tax was favored 122-33.

In resolutions adopted earlier the delegates opposed contract livestock feeding when the majority of the contract fed livestock bypasses the terminal market. They also called for a hog cholera eradication program and urged members to explore the possibility of co-operative processing plants in outstate areas.

Elton L. Berck of Lincoln was re-elected president of the group and two new directors were named: Harold Dinklage of Wisner in the 6th district; and Archie Elsberry of Knox County in the 7th district. Clifford Bartels of Alliance was re-elected first district director and Ora Glass of Fairfield, was re-elected in the 3rd district.

Three Directors were not up for re-election. They are second district director Clarence Lewis of Anselmo; 4th district director Louie Wiebe of Filley; and 5th district director O. R. Hennings of Gresham.

Berck, Wieve, Hennings, Lewis and Frank Haumont of Wiessert were named delegates to the national convention in New York, March 17-20.

At an earlier session several individuals and co-operatives were honored for their sales efforts. Those honored were: Joe J. Ernest, Dodge; Harold Nielsen, Elgin; Melvin Ommen, Unadilla; Allen Saathoff, Miller; Donald Hansen, Hemingford; the Farmers Union Co-operative at Verdigre; Farmers Union Store at Beatrice; Farmers Union Co-operative at Grafton; Farmers Union Co-operative at Pleasanton; and the Co-operative Creamery at Eustis.

Edgar Jackson, Local Jeweler, Musician, Dies

Edgar M. (Jack) Jackson, 78, of 1328 O, a Lincoln jeweler and musician, died Thursday.

Mr. Jackson played with the Lincoln Municipal Band more than 50 consecutive years in the annual summer concerts at Antelope Park.

He was a member of Musicians Local 483 and Elks Lodge 80.

Airman Guilty At Fondling Retrial

A retrial of a 21-year-old Lincoln Air Force Base man, charged with fondling a minor, resulted in a guilty verdict handed down Thursday.

After less than two hours' deliberation, a Lancaster District Court jury of 10 women and two men found Carl Wade Robinson guilty of the Dec. 19, 1962, offense involving a 10-year-old girl.

A hung jury of 9 women and 3 men was dismissed earlier this month after failing to reach a verdict in the case.

Banks' Clearings Over $46 Million

Lincoln's two downtown banks reported Thursday that February clearings totaled $46,405,347.

This figure showed a marked increase over $42,284,296 for the same month last year.

The total for this year, January through February, is $103,922,801. The comparable figure for the same months in 1962 was $94,277,350.

KEEPING CURRENT

Airman Clinton Wilson beat the deadline Thursday, applying for his 1963 license decal an hour before the windows closed at the Courthouse. After crowds earlier this week, only a few people remained in line at the close of business Wednesday. Drivers whose vehicles don't carry the 1963 decal today (March 1) may be fined. Police said they planned no immediate crackdown, but would issue tickets when they spotted cars with out the renewal stickers. (Star Photo)

Woman Decapitated By Airliner Propeller

Boston (UPI) — A young woman believed to have been a stewardess running for a plane was decapitated Thursday night by the whirling propeller of a DC7 airliner warming up for takeoff at Logan International Airport.

Some of the 24 passengers aboard the Eastern Air Lines shuttle flight to New York and Washington witnessed the tragedy, police said.

The victim was not immediately identified but an airport spokesman said Eastern was checking the fingerprints of its employes to aid investigators.

Massachusetts State Police said the accident occurred shortly before 8:30 p.m. (CST) at Pier E, a loading gate for Eastern's shuttle service to New York and Washington.

A spokesman for the Massachusetts Port Authority, operators of the airport, said the woman ran from the end of the loading pier after the plane, ignoring the warning shouts of officials. The plane had begun warming up before taxiing down the runway for takeoff.

The plane, already loaded, was bound for Newark, N.J., airport near New York City.

Agent Calls

The authority spokesman said a ramp agent called to the woman to warn her not to approach the plane but she apparently did not hear.

She ran into engine No. 1 on the big plane. All 4 engines of the plane were running.

The spokesman said the captain of the plane, identified as Frank D. Hopkins, told authorities he felt a jolt and immediately shut off the engine.

Angry Judge Stalks From Omaha Bench

Omaha (AP)—A Lincoln attorney made Douglas County Judge Robert Troyer so mad Thursday the judge stormed off the bench after levelling a blast at the attorney.

Attorney Miles W. Johnston was defending his son, Miles W. Jr., 20, in a careless driving case when a remark by the attorney led Judge Troyer to comment:

"What? Is that a threat? I don't know if you Lincoln lawyers get away with that down there, but you won't here."

'I'll Cool Off'

The judge then left the bench, remarking "I'll have to cool off a bit before I decide on the sentence."

As Judge Troyer left the courtroom, Attorney Johnston said: "I'm sorry. I apologize. I just made a mistake. I forgot."

"You ought to be," said Judge Troyer.

When the judge returned he levied a fine of $50.

'Just Routine'

Later attorney Johnston told Judge Troyer it was "just kind of routine" in Lincoln for an attorney to say he was going to appeal after his client was found guilty.

That, said the judge, was all right after sentencing but not before.

Judge Troyer told attorney Johnston that the fine had nothing to do with the happenings.

Syas Won't Oppose Bill To Redistrict

Sen. George Syas of Omaha Thursday said he will not oppose the legislative reapportionment bill at its public hearing Friday afternoon.

The measure, LB629, redistricting the Unicameral and boosting its size to 49 members, will be heard by the Government and Military Affairs Committee.

Syas helped lead Omaha opposition to the area legislative reapportionment amendment approved last November by Nebraska voters. That amendment has served as a basis for the redistricting bill.

Syas will offer an amendment to Douglas County redistricting boundaries, he said.

But opposition to the principle of applying weight to area in reapportionment will be carried on in the courts, he declared, rather than the Legislature.

It will be the court which renders the final decision, Syas noted.

Judge Grants Injunction In Tax Penalty Case

Omaha (AP)—District Judge Donald Brodkey has granted a temporary injunction putting into escrow all penalties paid by Douglas County residents who failed to report intangible property for tax purposes during 1962.

The county clerk's office said more than 2,600 persons failed to report $7.7 million in intangible property last year. The tax on this comes to more than $30,000 and penalties, figured at 5 times the tax due, amount to $154,286.

The injunction was granted in a suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. Benson F. Bachus of Omaha. Their suit contends the penalties are unconstitutional because they "far exceed those means reasonably sufficient to accomplish their legitimate objects."

Research Need Told By Governor

Minden (AP)—Planning and research by Nebraska is necessary if the state is to get its share of industries which will come into existence by 1975, Gov. Frank Morrison told a Rotary Club meeting Thursday night.

The governor said that by that year, 75% of the consumers goods produced in American factories will be products which have not yet been discovered. Likewise, he added, 75% of the labor force will be working on these products.

"Attracting these new industries is a major concern, but there is no reason why Nebraska can't play a vital role," the governor said.

Morrison said this is why he has proposed the creation of a new Department of Economic Development.

Omaha VFW: Charter Is Suspended 30 Days

. . . Pending Charges

David City (AP) — Department Commander William Tomek of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Thursday ordered the charter of Omaha Aviation Post 1729 suspended for 30 days pending the outcome of city charges against the post commander Melvin L. Brown.

Tomek said this suspension "is not to be construed in any manner to be the judging of innocence or guilt of Commander Brown or the post of charges filed against him."

Brown was arrested in connection with what was alleged to be an immodest exhibition at the Post Feb. 11. Police vice detail raiders halted the show and charged Brown along with two others in connection with it.

Following a meeting of state and local VFW officials Tomek said Monday no action was contemplated until after the hearing on the charges, but in a statement Thursday he said that after counsel with the national VFW organization "it was determined for the best interests of the VFW in the state of Nebraska that the charter must be suspended pending the hearing of charges because of the very unfavorable publicity that has come from it."

Tomek said he and the national organization hoped that Brown and the post would be exonerated.

He said that with the exception of a meeting to discuss the problems posed by the suspension all activities at the club will have to cease for the duration of the suspension.

In Municipal Court Tuesday Brown's hearing on a charge of arranging an immodest exhibition was continued for a week.

A motion also was filed seeking that the charges against the dancer in the alleged strip-tease show, Robin S. Hood, be dismissed. This motion is to be argued next week.

Brown had complained through his attorney that he was held incommunicado and denied access to a telephone following his arrest and this complaint is being investigated by direction of the mayor's office.

Larsen Freed In Brother's Death

Omaha (AP) — A District Court jury has acquitted Harold F. Larsen, 46, Omaha, of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of his brother.

Larsen testified he shot his brother, Matthew Joseph Larsen, 49, early July 14 thinking he was a prowler. Matthew died a month later.

Harold Larsen wept when the jury returned its verdict.

U.S. Won't Let Soviets Block Uprising In Cuba

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Thursday the United States would not stand idly by if Russian troops in Cuba were used to suppress a popular uprising there.

"We will not accept combat operations in this hemisphere by Soviet personnel," McNamara replied when asked what the United States would do in such a circumstance.

He said it was "much too early" to say anything about the movement of Soviet military personnel out of Cuba.

The Russians have notified the United States they plan to pull out some of the estimated 17,000 Russians still there by March 15.

On the question of an alleged reconnaissance photo gap of about 5 weeks last fall, McNamara said there were 6 U2 flights in the Sept. 5-Oct. 14 period.

Some Congress members have questioned whether any pictures were taken during that period, when the buildup of Russian missile forces was under way.

McNamara said pictures during this 5-week span were not shown on his televised intelligence report Feb. 6 because they did not relate to the specific missile sites then under discussion nor to the period of time he said he was discussing.

The Air Force took over high altitude reconnaisance from the Central Intelligence Agency just before the first hard evidence of missile sites was discovered. McNamara said the only reason for the change was that the CIA did not have enough planes to meet the increased reconnaissance demands.

Life Full Of Smiles

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

First caller in the office yesterday morning was the back shop foreman. Normally this might not be a particularly pleasant experience because his presence can mean some sort of problem. He has found a mistake in copy sent out to be set in type, the copy isn't getting to him fast enough, something has been lost or any one of many things could have happened. But the foreman walked in with a smile on his face.

"Say," he said, "the police sure did something nice for me." The man had started his car so it could warm up for the trip downtown. He then got out to shovel snow from the driveway. When he went back to get in his car, he found he had locked himself out with the keys in the ignition inside. He had heard of another fellow who had been helped out of such a situation by the police so he decided to give it a try himself. Minutes after calling the Police Department, officers were on the scene with a great multitude of keys. In no time at all, they had the car unlocked and the shop foreman on his way.

Car-Opening Service

There is a fellow you are not likely ever to hear grumbling about the Police Department. The fact is that the major share of the work of policemen is actually helping people but they get a verbal black eye now and then from the person they have to correct or crack down on rather than help. Stories such as the one from the foreman are the kind on which you like to start the day.

Readers of the morning Star started their day yesterday by coming face to face with a young mountain lion that seemed to be smiling out at them from his spot on the front page. The young fellow was a prop for a picture used to demonstrate the fact that Lincoln barbers had contributed $1,150 in their day's receipts to the Children's Zoo.

Animals, of course, make good pictures because people have a natural tendency to like them. The little mountain lion was a playful looking animal and he is just that. He will be that way, too, until he becomes from eight months to a year old and will then be a little too much for handling. But it isn't just the subject of animals that was appealing in the event. The gift by 27 Lincoln barber shops is further testimonial to the fantastic success of the Children's Zoo. It is doubtful that anything in Lincoln has been received with such widespread enthusiasm as this project. There is probably not a person in Lincoln who doesn't know about it and darn few who haven't helped the project in one way or another.

If there was ever a community-wide project, this is it. It has benefited from the efforts of countless numbers of groups and individuals and from both young and old. Single contributions of thousands of dollars as well as a few pennies have all gone to push total zoo income to date well over the $200,000 mark. There is no question that the zoo will get under way this summer in far better shape than had been originally hoped for. Several things account for this and for the fact that this project has given people a feeling of participation and pride that is probably unequalled. Contributions have even been received from throughout the state of Nebraska and from many other states in the Union. It is the kind of thing that convinces you that there are a lot of real fine people in the world but other things get in the way of our recognizing this from day to day.

In some respects a pleasant thought and in other ways discomforting is the news from the Wall Street Journal that spring strawberries are to be more costly. Seedlings from last fall's planting are down 35 per cent from last year as a result of dry weather which will cut this year's early spring crop by thousands of acres.

It is just pleasant even to think of strawberries and such things as shortcake and fresh fruit toppings on desserts. Of course, the higher price on the berries this spring means most of us will have fewer of them but we still won't be able to resist their temptation in the early stages of things. The first treat is always the best one, anyway, and we'll manage that somehow.

Maybe you smiled or maybe you bristle a little at the news that polls have shown the average European to think lightly of the American woman. A majority believe her to be lazy, too forward, domineering, frivolous or just plain lacking in good taste. You could smile because the Europeans have missed the mark so far or you could bristle at the misunderstanding the European seem to have of the American scene and American life. American business is well supplied with women whose ability throws cold water on the laziness idea.

If that isn't enough cold water, the Europeans have only to look at the way American women can whip into shape a house full of children and still carry on a host of school, church and community activities. As for other alleged faults, they fall flat simply because the average American woman is what the average American man wants her to be.

"What A Workout! I Hate People Who Hold Up Dinner Like That"

A Musical Opportunity

Tuesday evening will mark at least one of the highlights of the current season of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. It will be, too, an opportunity for the people of this area to spend a rewarding evening with the well known and highly popular music from five Lerner and Loewe musical comedies. In the symphony benefit last year at the Stuart Theater, the Rodgers and Hammerstein concert drew an overflow crowd.

None was disappointed with the music but many were disappointed because they had to be turned away. This year, the program from Lerner and Loewe will be held in Pershing Auditorium. The auditorium is already considered somewhat of a marvel for its fine acoustics but even better sound reproduction is expected with a special acoustical shell to be installed on the stage.

Along with this will be many fine musicians from the Lincoln area, three soloists who are well known to Lincoln music lovers and a chorus of 70. Thus, we have the music, the place and an outstanding group of performers. The only question remaining is the audience and it is hoped that it fills the auditorium as was done last year in the smaller theater.

The program has been selected to fit the tastes of all people, whether their special interest be heavy opera or popular tunes. It will include selections from five highly successful musical comedies, "Camelot," "Paint Your Wagon," "Gigi," "Brigadoon" and "My Fair Lady." This promises a most rewarding evening to those who attend the concert this coming Tuesday evening and their attendance will support a community project into which a great deal of time, effort and money has gone.

Forget The Microscope

The dispute over Bible reading in the public schools is growing abrasive as the recent exchanges between Supreme Court Justices Black and Stewart indicate.

It may be added that it is becoming not only abrasive, but distasteful to a great many Americans who still have access to fresh air and can resort to oxygenation to rid their minds of nit-picking. The matter has strayed from the essence.

The record shows there has never been many if any religious conversions resulting from quoting a few passages of the Bible in a public classroom. Extracts from the Bible, the Koran and the Zenda Vesta are contained in school books on worthy literature. But the schools are notably deficient in the production of Mohammedans, Buddhist, Rosicrucians, Shintoists or Christians.

Indeed, a person does not need to sit on the Supreme Court to note that many people can live Bible in hand and still manage to sport a deficiency in their spiritual behavior.

In this specific instance the Bible is accepted as one of the great books of the world, even when narrowly considered as literature, history, philosophy and sociology. It contains lofty examples of poetry, and writings that are the glory of the literary art. It is a little silly to bar such a source for fear it might corrupt some child into joining the Salvation Army when he otherwise might make it as an atheist, or an ignoramus, in one department of his mind.

The matter is edging toward the dangerous practice of book burning which can spread to many more things than the contents of one book.

Blind Man's Buff

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Duke of Harlem, is as near politically invulnerable as a congressman can be.

That probably has encouraged what appears to be a wanton disregard for the usual proprieties connected with spending counterpart funds, junketing to foreign lands and in general living "high on the hog."

Currently he is on the congressional pan and his Republican critics are exhibiting a high and noisy sense of outrage.

It is no defense for Powell that one examines the motives of the erstwhile Republican puritans. It does not take a long nor specialized memory to recall that Rep. Powell was in trouble with the Internal Revenue Department. By coincidence, he mislaid his party affiliations and gave a resounding endorsement of Republican candidate Eisenhower, and lo, the Internal Revenue case ran out of gas. Whatever his way of doing business may be, it seems to work in both directions, sometimes to the satisfaction of Democrats and other times to that of the Republicans. Such a situation does not make for real reform.

As good a negative defense for Powell is the fact that quite a number of other congressmen love to go abroad at public expense and delve into counterpart funds. It is a congressional privilege and few if any congressmen are ready to deny their own satisfaction to end the oversatisfaction of a colleague.

It doesn't take a very sophisticated man to detect when he is spending public money for his own delight and when he is using it in pursuit of public service. Rep. Powell and many of his colleagues could be brought to heel quickly by more discriminating authorization for foreign travel, plus the requirement of a careful accounting of funds spent. It is surprising that Congress cannot perceive this.

Housewives' Quiz

The federal government has gone all-out to protect the American housewife. It has hired a psychologist to make an expert study of housewives' reactions to misleading labelling, commercials, etc. Among the things the government wants to know is if the housewife is tricked in such ways. One sure answer to that is "only once."

DREW PEARSON

Pearson Asks For Patience With Cuba

(Editor's Note — Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his grandson, George L. Arnold Jr.)

Washington, D.C.

Dear Georgie,

I am glad to hear that you watered the lawn for your mother and did not charge her anything for it.

I am also glad to hear that you are writing reports on France, England, Germany, and Italy.

I also hope you are studying about Mexico, because both Cuba and Mexico are not only important neighbors of the United States but have undergone similar experiences.

Cuba is now called a communist nation, and this is pretty much true. But Mexico also underwent a communist revolution back in 1910, which was 53 years ago and seven years before the Bolshevik revolution in Russia. Yet Mexico is now a good friend of ours.

Mexico had been under a dictator for thirty years, Porfirio Diaz, just as Russia had been under the Czars and Cuba had been under various dictators ranging from Machado to Batista. Under dictators, the gap between the poor people at the bottom and the wealthy people at the top usually becomes dangerous; and the first thing the Mexican people did when they revolted was to divide up the land and give it to the landless peons.

The Mexicans also seized American oil property and American ranches, just as the revolutionaries have seized American oil refineries and American ranches in Cuba.

At one time, the United States Navy, which was far more powerful than Mexico's puny little fleet of gunboats, seized Vera Cruz because Mexico refused to salute the American flag after an American naval officer was insulted. At another time, American naval vessels shot up the relatively defenseless port of Tampico.

All of this was something like the trouble we are having with Cuba today, except that it was worse. The Mexicans even sent agents all over Latin America to stir up trouble against us just as Castro is sending agents around Latin America to stir up trouble today.

However, what most congressmen forget is that eventually we got over this bitterness; so that today Mexico is a good friend. We respect each other, work together on a lot of things, and American investments are safer in Mexico than perhaps any other Latin country.

F. D. Roosevelt sent the secretary of the navy, Josephus Daniels, who had once shot up Tampico, to be ambassador to Mexico, Daniels became very popular.

This is why I say that you should study Mexican history in school and why congressmen should study Cuba in relation to Mexico. Because we will have to learn to be quite patient with Cuba for about twenty years. If we are, things will work out. If we aren't, if we start invading Cuba or bombarding her, the bitterness will deepen.

Biparty Policy Declared Dead

WASHINGTON—Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, has announced the death of the bipartisan foreign policy and, with refreshing frankness, omitted the crocodile tears.

His remarks are only one of many signs that congressional Republican leaders believe the Cuban issue is a winning one and intend to press on with it. Many observers question the wisdom of their decision, including some who feel that Hickenlooper expressed a fact of life and that the blame rests equally on the White House and Congress.

By coincidence, Sen. Jacob Javits of New York and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, both Republicans, have prepared a television discussion of the same question for the New York state network next week end. Both agree with the Hickenlooper verdict and apportion the blame about equally.

But they call for reassertion of the policy forthwith. Cooper says that bipartisanship in foriegn policy does not mean the critics should not criticize but that criticism which stops with putting the President in a corner is irresponsible. Javits agrees and declares that the purpose of criticism should be to get an agreement on what ought to be done.

Javits and Cooper are among the internationalist Republican moderates whose votes on key issues often help the President to make up lost ground in his own party. But they are not leaders of their party. Hickenlooper is, and the White House has either failed to make a durable contact with him or lost it.

Democrats are somewhat taken aback by Hickenlooper's cool remarks. They had been pursuing the argument on more traditional lines, accusing the opposition of shattering the noble concept of the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, a Republican, and assuming the stance of blamelessness. Both parties, as it suited their book, have been on both sides of this debate in years past.

The political question is what the voter thinks about it. Those who believe that Republicans in 1964 will, as in the past, name a presidential candidate who is a moderate internationalist, deplore so strong a congressional identification on the Cuban issue. They point to soundings which suggest the public is now satisfied with the progress the President is making there.

☆ ☆ ☆

They argue that cheers from his critics come from dedicated quarters which will vote Republican anyway but repel the independent voters whose allegiance tends to be Democratic. This is a mistake for the minority party, they insist.

Country On A Blister Binge

By MONA B. PARKER

As far as the Trenton Register knows, nobody in that immediate area has tried to prove he can hike 50 miles in 17 hours. The Register adds that the latest fad apparently is getting the loudest objections from the automobile makers in Detroit, "who had hoped people had forgotten how to walk."

☆ ☆ ☆

Francis Rea of the Schuyler Sun looks upon the whole matter from another economic point of view. The current tramping craze probably is a spur to the sale of such products, he surmises, as foot powder, bandages and assorted foot-ease remedies. However, he admits that he is glad he personally is not a follower of the cult.

"If I had a choice, I would much more prefer President Kennedy's other innovation — the rocking chair."

From the Auburn Press-Tribune: "Just when we thought the nation was settling down to do some solid thinking on the state of affairs, the bottom fell out and all that brain-power is being directed to avoiding blisters on a 50-mile hike."

Two Denver women were in Kearney one day recently conducting a little experiment of their own. It was something quite different, and was being done by car.

They were testing out how much is really meant by the casual invitation to "stop and see us some time." All along the line, they were dropping in on friends and relatives who had extended such invitations. So far no one had shut a door in their faces. They planned a Lincoln visit to someone who had jotted on a Christmas card: "Hope we see each other in '63."

They might go all the way to Kentucky, they explained, on their check-up tour.

Nobody needs to use the term, "a dog's life," and expect any sympathy from Charlie Sass of the Lodgepole Nebraskan. He was in an office the other day and observed a very pertinent example of what that really means. "The Mexican Chihuahua was sound asleep on a pillow placed in a drawer. We've seen the same dog wearing knitted sweaters in cool weather and bundled up even more in cold weather. Below zero it gets to sleep on the register of the furnace. No taxes, no salesmen, no worries. It just eats and sleeps. What a life!"

The collective motor vehicle was causing problems in Pawnee City, too, according to Editor Max Martin of the Republican. Local parking was becoming a headache again, with discussion on both sides on enforcement of a two-hour parking ordinance.

The whole thing, Mr. Martin says truthfully, boils down to the fact that nobody wants to walk, even for a short ways. Anybody in town could park his car within two or three blocks of his destination, and in larger towns, "we'd think we hit the jackpot." There is the chronic conflict between businessmen and employes who park and shoppers.

City enforcement of the two-hour law has been fairly costly. As pointed out, over $800 has been paid out for policing, and only $28 taken in on fines.

But there are problems of varying sorts connected with all kinds of transportation, it seems. The crew of Train No. 7, a westbound passenger, mail and express, found itself cast in the role of piggy midwife as the train paused in Holdrege a few nights ago.

A sow in shipment was in the process of giving birth to a litter and the trainmen were busy taking care of her, in addition to their handling duties of mail and express.

When Mrs. Roy Ahrndt and her husband of Scribner were en route to town with their son driving his car, a radiator hose split apart. Son asked father for pocket knife. Father asked son to check tool box. No knife. Mother delved into her purse and produced a tiny pen knife that did the trick, to the embarrassment of both her menfolk.

Mixed Marriages

Lincoln, Neb.

It's about time our 50 states got together and made their laws more or less equal. Down South the colored people aren't allowed to attend school, college or vote, but now in our own state they pass the law approving of interracial marriage. The only races mentioned are Negro, Japanese and Chinese. What about all the Europeans who have come over here and married for many years?

I think there is a limit. I think they should be treated equally, but that is no sign that intermarrying is necessary. I have personally known colored families who were a credit to some of our whites. But I do not approve of intermarrying. The thing to do is help them, treat them all equally, but go only the limit and not beyond.

Spiritual Need

Lincoln, Neb.

In answer to L. T. Baughan's letter on ministers keeping their offices open seven days a week, obviously he knows nothing about the hectic life of a priest or minister. Their routine is no picnic. It is very necessary that they be available at all times to give spiritual guidance to those who need it. They could hardly answer a knock at the door or a telephone call with the comment: "This is my day off. See me tomorrow."

As to stores being open on Sunday, there shouldn't be any excuse for anyone to purchase groceries on this, the Lord's day, except for those who keep Saturday holy. The almighty dollar is being placed before the spiritual values.

Sales Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

Just how long is the state of Nebraska going to let Omaha run the entire state? We pay senators to handle things for us, then they give some outsider $30,000 to advise them on how to handle taxes. Why do we need them if we have to bring in someone else to tell them how it should be done? They are afraid to put a sales tax in because Omaha does not want it since they get the Iowa business.

Why do we not put it to a vote of the people? It would go over big. I come in contact with people all over the state and 90% say it is the only tax where everybody pays, even people from other states who come here. We have to pay if we go over to the other states, so why don't we let them pay here?

Let's just put it to a vote and we will have a tax that will not put the burden on a few home-owners. Let's let everybody pay his share.

Civil Law

Lincoln, Neb.

The Judiciary Committee's approval of LB179, repealing Nebraska's ban on interracial marriages, is a step toward putting our state back into the camp of progressive America.

In an era in which a third of humanity — the colored peoples of Africa, Latin and South America, and Southeast Asia — are groping for new and better socio-economic system, the United States cannot exclude itself from existing and potential alliances by perpetuating racial divisions on its own shores.

Moreover, it is the tragic lesson of history that wherever one group is kept segregated and depressed, the whole society is dragged down proportionately. It is time that anthropology's contention that there is but one race of man, the human race, be recognized emotionally as well as intellectually by Americans.

The transcendent problems that plague mankind—natural disaster, depletion of resources, conquest of hunger and poverty, challenges of the space and technological age — can be resolved only through the cooperative efforts of men and women undivided by racial, national, religious and other antagonisms.

We fought a civil war against racialism in the last century, and a world war against fascist racialism in the first half of this century. Let the battle of civil law now bring the struggle to its ultimate conclusion.

Finding Facts

Alexandria, Neb.

New York, Governor Rockefeller's state, is paying unemployment benefits of $50 a week to the striking printers. In addition they get up to $65 a week from their strike fund. These are U.S. News and World Report figures. With such an inducement, $115 a week, most all of us like the printers would be happy to take a long New York City vacation.

The governor and the President talk about fact-finding. What other fact do they need to see what is wrong? Actually, the one overriding fact that is wrong is that we have the wrong kind of men in the top places of government.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"Can the postman who delivers this lecture him on writing more to his girl friend?"

Building Control Ruled Unconstitutional

Two bills before the Legislature would violate the constitutional separation of powers between the legislative and the executive branches, according to an opinion by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer.

The Legislature may not retain control over an expenditure or use of a power by requiring its approval after having appropriated the money or granted the power, his opinion said.

Sen. George Syas of Omaha had asked whether the two bills relating to such situations would be an encroachment by the Legislature on executive authority.

One if LB324, providing that no new building may be constructed nor buildings or lands purchased by the state without prior legislative approval. The bill would also require legislative authorization before any money from the special building fund levy could be spent.

The other measure is LB325, providing the Legislature rather than the governor must consent to purchases of real estate by the Game Commission.

Syas questioned the constitutionality of these bills.

Meyer said that "by these bills we are confronted with an appropriation made, and an authority granted which are conditioned on the subsequent approval and authorization of the Legislature of any proposed expenditure or use of that power."

"If the Legislature may do this it can also, by similar provision in other law, require the state auditor to seek its permission to audit a state department or a county, or require the attorney general to first ask the Legislature before he could defend the state against legal attack. Reduced to an absurdity, such provisions could be carried to such an extent that no executive activity could proceed without prior consent for each individual act."

The opinion noted the Legislature "has the power and authority to decide all of these matters before making any appropriation, or before granting any authority. Yet, Meyer added, "if it (the Legislature) seeks to retain control by inserting in its laws and bills the requirement that no action be taken or money spent until subsequent approval of the Legislature be granted, then it is in effect, both making the law and administering it, appropriating the money and spending it, and the constitutional system of separation of power would be destroyed."

Skarda Moves To Revive Bill

Omaha Sen. William Skarda Jr. moved in the Legislature Thursday to revive one of his bills which had been killed in committee, but action on the motion was deferred.

The measure, LB453, authorizes the Health Department to make searches of its records and furnish certified copies free of charge in hardship cases involving assistance recipients under the social security act.

License Reflectorization Fee Is Advanced By Legislature

A proposal that Nebraska motor vehicle owners be charged 25 cents for each license plate to pay the costs of reflectorization was advanced in the Legislature Thursday.

Action on the proposal was deferred until Friday.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff proposed the amendment to LB178, currently en route to final passage.

Sen. M. M. Forrester of Anselmo, sponsor of LB178, said he has been advised that the 25 cents would not only pay the costs of reflectorizing the plates, but would pay the cost of the plate itself.

The plates currently are manufactured at the Nebraska Men's Reformatory at a cost of about 11 cents each, Forrester said he had been advised. With more than a million plates issued, the cost of manufacture approaches $130,000 he calculated.

The 25 cent fee per plate thus would absorb the cost of reflectorizing the plates and also absorb the $130,000 cost for manufacturing the plates.

Another Carpenter amendment adopted by unanimous consent clarifies the authority of the director of motor vehicles to exercise discretion in selecting materials for reflectorization. Several different products and processes are available.

Reflectorization has been proposed as a safety measure.

Air Base Tax Measure Advanced

A bill designed to put on tax rolls some personal property located on former air bases in Nebraska received 30-3 endorsement from the Nebraska Legislature Thursday in its first floor test.

The bill, LB75, was prompted by complaints that a cattle feeding firm operating on the former Bruning Air Base under a lease with the State Aeronauties Department was in position to compete unfairly with other private enterprise feeders in the area because of the tax advantage.

The bill attaches territory not now in an organized school district, to a school district.

LB75 was introduced by Sens. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont, J. W. Burbach of Crofton and Dale Erlewine of Grant.

Sens. Burbach, Fred O. Gottschalk of Columbus and Ross Rasmussen of Hooper voted against advancing the bill from general file.

Advanced 30-1 from general file was LB348, requiring the state registration of sanitarians.

Introduced by Sens. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha and Fern Orme of Lincoln, LB348 creates a board of registration for sanitarians, and sets up qualifications for sanitarians.

Resolution To Use Mural Group's Services Adopted

The Legislature, without debate, adopted 34-0 Thursday a resolution inviting the Capitol Building Commission to utilize the services of the Capitol Mural Commission in a forthcoming project.

The resolution by Sen. Fern Orme of Lincoln supplements an earlier legislative bill directing the Building Commission to place in the Capitol a plaque commemorating those persons serving on the Capitol Commission at the time the Capitol was erected.

The resolution urges the Capitol Building Commission to use the Mural Commission's services in designing, preparing and placing the plaque with appropriate ceremonies.

Endurance, Heroism Help 3 Survive Trying Ordeals

By The Associated Press

Human endurance and heroism enabled a woman, a man and a boy to survive nightmarish experiences that could have snuffed out their lives.

In Sanger, Calif., Mrs. Inez Hiscock, 45, a rancher's wife, held out tenaciously for 32 gruelling hours while trapped deep in waters of a caved-in well.

"I decided about the only thing you can do in a situation like that is pray and holler," Mrs. Hiscock said after the rescue.

She said she was looking at the old well when it caved in unexpectedly. "I don't know how deep the water is," she said. "I was hanging onto the side and the water was up to my armpits, and I never did touch bottom."

Searchers found and rescued her a day after her employers reported she had not showed up for work.

She suffered pneumonia and was confined to a hospital by her doctor who said:

"She wasn't a bit afraid in that well. She even had the presence of mind to safeguard some rather expensive glasses. She tucked them in her brassiere."

Climbed Cliff

At Seal Cove in New Brunswick, Canada, William Jones, 42, climbed a 300-foot cliff on the southern tip of Grand Manan Island in the Bay of Fundy to get help for his injured brother, Floyd, 36.

"I don't know how he did it. I guess it was faith in God that took him up," said Floyd.

Never in the memory of islanders had a man scaled the wall of rock.

The ordeal of the fishermen brothers of Haycox Harbor, Maine, began when their 15-foot powerless boat was hurled over sharp rocks by a high wave and dumped at the foot of the cliff.

As his brother lay semi-conscious on the ground below, William inched his way to the crest in the darkness and plodded 3 miles to a lighthouse for help. Rescuers lowered two men on ropes to bring Floyd up.

Islanders said William told them that high winds off the water seemed to keep him pinned to the rock.

Unconscious

And at New Rochelle, N.Y., Leroy Page, 15, on an errand for his mother, found Joseph Politi, 7, hanging unconsicous in a tree with a rope around his neck.

Page grabbed the boy to relieve the pressure on his neck and held him up, at the same time yelling for his brother, Richard Page, 13, to bring a knife. The two then cut the youth down.

Young Politi's condition was reported serious. Police said he apparently had been climbing the tree and became entangled in the rope.

Pennsylvania Attorney Fights For Bible Reading

. . . IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Washington (AP) — Counsel for Pennsylvania told the Supreme Court Thursday that a decision against Bible reading in public schools would be an expression of hostility to religion.

John D. Killian III, deputy attorney general of the state, contended such a decision would violate the requirement of the Constitution's first amendment that government remain neutral toward religion.

Pennsylvania law, requiring the reading of 10 Bible verses as part of daily school-opening exercises, was ruled unconstitutional by a 3-judge federal court in Philadelphia. The ruling was on complaint of Unitarian parents of two school children who said the Constitution guarantees them complete freedom to shape and mold the religious orientation of their children.

Educational

Arguing for reversal of the lower court ruling, Killian said the Bible-reading practice extends back to Colonial days in Pennsylvania. He insisted the reading is not a religious practice but an educational one.

Philip H. Ward III, Philadelphia attorney for the Abington Township School Board, said religious instruction was not intended by the legislature and denied that the readings amount to such instruction.

"The statute says the purpose was to bring lessons of morality to children, and the people of Pennsylvania picked a common source of morality — they picked the Bible," he told the high court.

Morality?

Opposing the arguments of Ward and Killian, Henry W. Sawyer III of Philadelphia, counsel for those challenging the statute, argued religious teaching cannot be separated from Bible reading. He challenged the state's use of the Bible as a teacher of morality, saying "you can't use the word 'morality' to cover religious exercises."

Jusice Potter Stewart wanted to know if Bible readings would be permissible if no state law were involved and school children themselves voted to have the readings.

Sawyer replied:

"The difference lies in the imprimiture and aegis of the state. The children would have the right to take such action, but not to get the state to do it for them."

Cannot Do

He said the Pennsylvania Bible readings "prefer Christian religions over other religions, and that you cannot do."

"To me," said Sawyer, "it is the final arrogance to talk constantly about our religious tradition and equal it with the Bible. That suggests our schools are a kind of Protestant institution to which others are cordially invited. This Bible reading is conducted as a religious ceremony, and the lower court so found."

Killian insisted the Pennsylvania law has as its purpose the teaching of morality and quoted testimony by a state superintendent of public instruction. The state official testified that "one of the last vesiges of moral value left in our school system" is the Bible reading, Killian related.

Difficult

Justice Arthur J. Goldberg told Ward it is very difficult to understand how the teaching of morality alone could be taken from "the greatest religious document."

Ward countered:

"I read one thing out of the Bible. You read another. The Bible can teach something other than religion. That's what we're teaching. It is a great religious work, but also a great source of moral values."

The Pennsylvania litigation, begun by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lewis Schempp, and a similar case from Maryland, were argued Wednesday and Thursday and the 9 justices then took the issue under consideration for later decision.

Objected

In the Maryland case, Mrs. Madalyn Murray and her 16-year-old son objected, as atheists, to school Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Both cases arose under the constitution's first amendment which prohibits government aid in establishment of religion and bars any impairment of religious freedom. The final decision will affect similar school-opening exercises in many other states.

Governor Again Urging Jail For Drunken Drivers

Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday said he once again plans to write public prosecutors in the state urging them to ask jail sentences for persons convicted of drunken driving.

The governor also urged judges to increase penalties for driving infractions and to generally assess maximum rather than minimum fines.

Morrison once before requested prosecutors by mail to get tough with drunk drivers.

The governor said the traffic situation "is getting to the point where it is an absolute crisis."

Nebraska Pilot Escapes Serious Injury In Crash

Denver (AP)—A light plane crash landed in a field on the northeast edge of Denver Thursday but the Nebraska pilot escaped with nothing worse than a cut forehead.

He was identified as Lloyd C. Ruff, Broken Bow auto dealer. He told authorities his plane developed engine trouble after taking off from Stapleton Field en route to Broken Bow.

Ruff said he tried to glide to a landing at another airport but his single-engine plane hit the ground about 1½ miles from the airport.

Ruff was taken to Fitzsimons General Hospital where Army doctors described his condition as good.

U.N. Troop Training Rumor Hit

Washington, (AP) — The Army is trying to set at rest rumors that have magnified a routine anti-guerrilla training maneuver into an allegedly mysterious plan to train thousands of United Nations troops on U. S. soil.

Some alarmed citizens have written and wired Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., and others.

The senators, in turn, have asked the Army what it's all about.

The rumors generally speak of secret plans to airlift thousands of U. N. troops to Georgia and to take over as much as 9 counties, 25,000 square miles, for the training operations.

According to the Army, somebody has seized on a piece of truth and blown it up all out of proportion.

Whether this was done purposely, the Army is not venturing to guess.

But this, it insists, is the true story:

At the end of a special warfare course at Ft. Bragg, N.C., it is customary to hold a two-week field exercise.

Starting March 4 such a maneuver will be held in an area of 2,500 square miles surrounding Ft. Stewart, Ga.

Instead of thousands, there will be only 124 officers from 17 foreign nations. And they will be there not as United Nation troops, but representing their own countries.

In all, about 600 men, including U. S. special forces experts and paratroopers, will take part in the maneuver involving the type of guerrilla and counter-guerrilla war-fare now waged in Viet Nam.

As is customary, the Army said, advance arrangements are being made with local residents.

District Attorney Fined $1,000 For Defaming Judges

New Orleans (UPI)—Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison was fined $1,000 Thursday for defaming New Orleans' 8 criminal court judges in his zeal to clean up the French Quarter. He said he will appeal to the state supreme court.

Special Judge William Ponder of nearby Many, La., denied a motion to give Garrison a new trial.

If the conviction is upheld and Garrison pays the fine, the money will go into the courts' fines and fees fund, the money source that got Garrison in trouble in the first place.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

How goes the spinning world now that March is here? If you are about to be hanged, you should have thought of that and been born an English Lord.

English peers are entitled to be hanged with a silk rope instead of that rough hemp which scratches your neck.

This shows nobility is worth fighting for. I suppose it is all done with nylon these synthetic days, however. The good old days are gone, gone, gone. Pass the port, sir.

You can buy mink eyebrows that paste on in Paris. That's a hopeful note. You could wear mink eyebrows. And you could get a tame mink on a leash and let him wear human eyebrows. You would then get your name in the social columns and be a member of the International Set.

If you move and want your cat to stay at home, rub butter on his paws at the new residence. (I had a Siamese named Freddie once. I buttered him up with flattery and he went and lived with rich neighbors up the hill anyway.)

A cupcake in Springfield, Mo. (the show-me State) sued her dentist. He pulled a tooth and she said it lowered her kissing ability. However, the court did not feel this was damaging enough to award damages.

(I wish when these things come on the wire, they would expand so you could get more intimate knowledge. How did this chick kiss BEFORE her tooth was out? It's frustrating.)

If you shave in a space ship, the whiskers float around. (Instead of getting in the bowl and causing a lot of argument. Like, "Well, you left the cap off the toothpaste!")

A number of fires in Ventura, Calif., have been traced to padded brassieres. According to the Fire Chief, foam rubber breaks down after about 6 months of washing and it develops a low ignition temperature. When it gets in the dryer—poof!

Another one of those stories. But why only in Ventura?

Curse such reporting.

Recently, he was shoveling snow—the gardening business being off for the winter—when, cor, stone the crows, his second cousin died leaving him the title of Earl of Buckinghamshire.

This automatically entitles the new Earl to be hanged with a silken rope. Certainly a legacy few of us attain.

Cities Ask 'Positive Protection' Of Power Rights

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Municipal representatives Thursday emphasized they want "positive protection for the rights of municipalities" in the public power bills proposed to the Legislature.

Major discussion at a Lincoln meeting of the League of Nebraska Municipalities' Special Power Committee centered on LB600 for the "strong merger" plan and LB476 for the 5-area plan.

Vern Livingston, Nebraska City utilities manager and committee chairman, keynoted the meeting by saying the municipalities want to retain their rights to generate or buy power, set their own rates, and serve their corporate and zoning areas.

"Municipalities operating their own electric systems represent the oldest public power organizations in Nebraska," he said. "In Nebraska, statistics show that municipal operations bring the lowest rates as well as the most dependable service to the users of electricity."

M. L. Sievers, North Platte utilities director, said the 5-area plan proposes to eliminate duplicate power facilities, but permit the hydroelectric districts to preserve their properties against those power groups who want to take them out of the system.

He indicated there are no basic conflicts in the bill with the present rights of municipal power systems.

Frank Phelps, Grand Island utilities commissioner, said LB600 proposes a single wholesale power district for the eastern two-thirds of Nebraska under an 11-member management board.

2 Municipal Members

He said the municipals would have two members on the board. Other members would represent the Loup, Platte, Consumers Districts and Nebraska Electric Generation and Transmission Cooperative Inc.

However, Phelps suggested, the bill "would make municipalities planning to acquire their own distribution system in 1972 captive customers of the 'big district.'"

He said the municipalities should question whether some provisions of the bill protect the rights of municipalities.

'Empire-Building'

"In all the bills," he said, "I feel personally there are empire-building efforts by the various power groups. I fail to see any dollar advantage to the taxpayer."

George Svoboda, attorney for the Fremont utilities board, said LB220 will protect municipal power systems in serving their towns and environs.

"If the municipals don't protect what they have in the Legislature, the power districts will be taking it away from them," he said. "There should be as much localized control as possible in a state system. Municipal systems must be able to grow with their towns and their zoning area and interconnect with other municipalities."

He said the municipalities "need more positive protection" in the two major power bills pending before the Unicameral.

Clarence A. Davis, Lincoln attorney and an authority in public power law, said Nebraska's grid system "should supply wholesale rates that can't be duplicated elsewhere, but hasn't done so."

LB600 Solution

He said he believed that the LB600's "strong-merger" plan and 11-member board "will resolve the bickering and duplication between districts."

"I don't think the bill will clip or is intended to clip the power of the municipalities," he added.

Davis said the 5-area bill "would weaken the statewide system advantages and ultimately result in the same old bickerings."

He suggested the "complete chaos" in the state's power system stems from the "insane desire (among the major power agencie) to be king."

End City Duplication

Davis said LB633, proposed by Lincoln senators, proposes to end the duplication of power distribution facilities in Lincoln.

It provides Consumers system within the city and the municipal system be merged and operated by the city until 1972, he explained.

Davis said Consumers' counterproposal to take over the municipal plant can't be done without voter approval, while any legal bars to Lincoln's proposal would be eliminated by LB633.

Normal Board Terms Building Needs Critical

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The State Normal Board told the Budget Committee Thursday that the booming enrollment at the state's 4 teachers colleges has produced a "critical" building situation which cannot be met adequately by their present share of the building levy.

Board Member Carl Spelts of Kearney made the statement in support of LB492 which proposes establishment of a special one-half mill building levy for the 4 colleges.

The 4 teachers colleges now receive 25% of state's 1.1 mills institutional building levy — about $800,000 to $900,000 annually. This would be increased to approximately $1.6 to $1.8 million a year under LB492.

The committee deferred action on the bill until more information requested of the Normal Board has been submitted.

Spelts noted the 4 colleges have experienced a 22% hike in enrollments over the past two years resulting in "overcrowded classrooms" even though classes are being held "at night, in the early morning and through the noon hour."

The board presented a proposed $7.5 million building program for the 4 colleges on needs estimated for the next 4 to 6 years, but no priorities have been established on which buildings are most needed at any of the 4 campuses located at Kearney, Wayne, Chadron and Peru.

The Budget Committee requested that such priorities be established, and asked also so that it be furnished with space utilization reports on each campus and anticipated enrollment increases for the next 6 years.

Spelts indicated the board was hesitant to establish priorities "too far in advance," because of possibly changing conditions, and suggested it might be all right to plan ahead one biennium.

Should Be Flexible

Sen. Don Thompson of McCook said he thought "any plans should be flexible," but added that if they were going to be made just two years in advance the idea of a projected building levy might as well be abandoned and have building needs met by direct appropriations every two years.

Spelts said a special Buildings and Grounds Committee set up by the Board Thursday would get to work on the priorities "right away."

The Budget Committee also heard and held another measure, LB563, requested by the Normal Board which would establish a retirement system for the teachers colleges similar to that of the University of Nebraska.

Spelts said the board has "realized for a long time that its present retirement system is not adequate," and that it has created a hardship in the highly competitive market for faculty.

Normal Board Executive Coordinator Freeman Decker told the committee the proposed system is based on the retirement program of the Teachers Insurance Annuity Association. It calls for a joint contribution from both those covered and the state — up to a maximum of 6% from each.

The board has not yet established a policy on coverage, nor employed an actuary to determine costs, but Decker said the "very most" the program could cost over the next biennium would be $478,000 — and he estimated it would be "far less" than that figure.

15-Year-Old Admits Stealing Some Mail

A 15-year-old Lincoln youth was referred to county juvenile authorities Thursday after he admitted stealing two mail packages, some cards and letters from an apartment at 1542 O.

Police reports said the youth also admitted shoplifting several items from 6 Lincoln stores, and prowling several parked cars in the downtown area.

'SHE' OF ORD FOR REEVES'S SMOKING BILL

The president of the Smokers Habit Exterminators (SHE) Club of Ord informed Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City Thursday the club unanimously favors passage of LB-368.

The bill proposes to inscribe "use of this product will endanger human health" on every package of cigarettes sold in Nebraska. It was advanced from committee after a public hearing on it earlier this week.

Reeves introduced the bill.

Richard F. Rowbal is president of the SHE Club, which has 20 members.

Prepaid Property Tax Killed In Revenue Body

A bill proposing "prepayment" of at least 60% of state property taxes each year was killed Thursday on a 6-0 vote of the Revenue Committee.

The measure, LB388, was a recommendation of the McClelland tax study and was introduced by Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud.

Another tax study bill, LB380, providing penalties for corporations which fail to file a list of stockholders with the state tax commissioners, was heard and held for amendment.

Almost Identical

As currently written, it is almost identical to LB16, awaiting action on final reading.

Killed 5-0 was LB581, which would reduce from .50 to .35 of 1% the fire insurance premium tax now paid by foreign and alien insurance companies which sell fire insurance in Nebraska.

LB388 proposed that state taxpayers remit at least 60% of their estimated tax on or before July 1 each year.

Failure to comply would result in a fine of from $100 to $500, plus a penalty of 6% interest.

The remainder of the tax bill would be due Dec. 1, and delinquent Jan. 2, according to the proposal.

Bowen told the committee the state would be operating under better business practices "if the tax were levied and paid in the same year that the property was assessed."

Property taxes are now assessed about one year before they are due.

In presenting the bill, Bowen noted that he has "no strong feelings" about the proposal.

Opposition testimony was led by Lincoln attorney C. Russell Mattson, representing the County Treasurers Assn.

The bill, he said, contained provisions "repugnant to the Nebraska system of real estate taxation."

'Greatest Turnover'

Mattson agreed with Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, who suggested that passage of the measure would result in "the greatest turnover in the history of the Legislature."

LB380, which provides that corporations which fail to list their stockholders forfeit the right to sell shares in Nebraska while not complying with the law, was opposed by the Nebraska Investment Bankers Association.

Chapel Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Marilyn Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence E. Turner of Rising City, to Larry F. Schuette, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schuette of Hooper, was solemnized Saturday evening, Feb. 23, at the Lutheran Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus. The lines of the candlelight service were read by the Rev. A. J. Norden in the presence of members of the family and a small group of friends.

Miss Marjorie Turner of Rising City was her sister's maid of honor. Her full-skirted frock of aqua silk organza was fashioned with wide, bishop sleeves, and she carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was Kenneth W. Schuette of Shenandoah, Iowa, who also was the vocal soloist. Seating the guests were Howard Turner, Rising City, and Warren Turner, Lincoln, brothers of the bride, and Leonard Geisler of Hooper.

The bride chose white peau de soie for her wedding gown. Floral appliques of jeweled lace trimmed the cameo neckline of the long-sleeved basque, and the very full skirt was completed at the back by a large bow of the silk. A pearl and sequin crown held to the head her illusion veil, and she carried an arrangement of pink and red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuette will live in Lincoln, where the bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Schuette has attended the University of Nebraska.

Club Members Hear Officer

Attending an area meeting of Zonta Clubs in Omaha last week end were 12 members of the Zonta Club of Lincoln, who heard an address by Mrs. J. Maria Pierce, international president of the organization.

Mrs. Pierce spoke on the organization's international project of aiding Ramallah, vocational training center in the middle east for refugee girls. Zonta has provided 20, $500 scholarships for the center, which offers teacher education as well as vocational training.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

PARK MANOR

It's too soon to talk about the weather again, and we really can't seem to do anything about it, so thus advised, we'll look for another topic of interest.

We could talk about fly-tying, snail-trailing, or spring fashions for Antarctic residents, but since there have really been no changes here since last year, this seems worn out for a topic of conversation, for what's more interesting to Suburban residents than news about their neghbors and their friends.

Through our big magic window here in Park Manor, we see that neighborhood residents have been busy this week with the usual round of parties and visitors.

It was a no-host, or perhaps we should say "all-host," celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Emery Nelson last Saturday evening as they marked their wedding anniversary with an evening of festivities with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marquardt, Mr. and Mrs. John Binning, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glenn.

Their fun evening began with canapes at the Marquardt home, and then it was dinner at the University Club and dancing at the Inter-Com Club. They ended the celebration with a visit to one of Lincoln's coffee houses.

It sounds like a fun way to celebrate an anniversary, and we understand that the four couples do the same for each of their anniversaries.

A visitor who soon will be leaving Park Manor is Mrs. George Hassing Sr., who has been a guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Hassing Jr., for several days.

Mrs. Hassing, who makes her home in Jackson, Minn., arrived in Lincoln last week, and will be returning to Minnesota this weekend.

Also enjoying her visit, of course, have been the little Hassings, Toni, Jeanne, Jimmy, and Tommy.

We're always interested in what the Camp Fire Girls in the neighborhood are doing, and it seems they were very busy last Sunday with what we would imagine was a very special treat.

The Kin-Ka-We group, those are all fifth grade young ladies from May Morley School, spent the afternoon ice skating and then took their former leader, Mrs. Donald Weller, and sponsor, Mrs. Dan Renigio, to dinner.

Those young ladies in Kin-Ka-Ne, incidentally, are Julie Kushner, Julie Moreland, Jeanne Hassing, Becky Nugum, Suzanne Tanderup, Wendy Voss, Tina Tallman, Sue Renigio, Barbara Weller, Ann Henry, and Debora Bock.

We should also mention that the new co-leaders of Park Manor's Camp Fire group are Mrs. Sheldon Kushner and Mrs. Willis Moreland.

Entertaining departing neighbors Wednesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Whitcomb and their youngsters, Scott, Marcene, and Nancy.

Their guests, of course, were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Irvine and the little Irvines, Linda and Jack, who left Thursday for their new home in Des Moines, Iowa.

We've mentioned Mr. and Mrs. Irvine's move before, but now we can tell you that their new address is to be 1900 Prospect, West Des Moines.

CLIFFORD PLACE

Neighborhood residents celebrating the first anniversary of their residency in Clifford Place last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fitzwater, and the occasion was marked with an informal gathering of several neighbors at the Fitzwater home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzwater's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burkland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Goodell, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Leatherman.

Debutante In Texas

Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Mowbray returned home a few days ago from El Paso, Tex., where they attended the "Fetes des Couers' Charity ball at which their daughter, Miss Jacquelyn Mowbray, made her debut.

Among the debutantes were 25 young ladies who were daughters of prominent Texas families—and Miss Mowbray. As it happens Miss Mowbray is a student at Texas Western College.

The El Paso Times article concerning the debutante ball, tells us that Miss Mowbray was presented by her father, as were all of the debutantes, and that her escort was Ronald Coleman.

"Miss Mowbray," the story said, "wore a white satin ballgown, the bodice beaded in pearls and sequins. The pearls and sequins were repeated in an ornamental motif on the front of the bell-shaped skirt.

The Texas paper also described the gown worn by Mrs. Mowbray—It was in the beige tone patterned with an all-over design in gold bugle beads.

CHATTER — in the — CORRIDOR

By SANDIE LAW

Here I am again with news from Lincoln Northeast.

On Tuesday, we had our Honor's Convocation Assembly for the first semester of 1962-63. Receiving 22 hour's of 1's and/or 2's with no grade below a 4 were 35 seniors, 45 juniors, and 48 sophomores. Our guest speaker was Dr. Milton Evans, Dean of Student Affairs at Nebraska Wesleyan University. He spoke on, "S.O.S Scholarship, Opportunity, and Service."

Tuesday night after school, our Rocket gymnastics team met with Lincoln High. The Rockets defeated Lincoln High by a score of 67½-61½. They meet Omaha Benson at our gym today. Let's have another victory.

Congratulations, Bob Meyers for being the winner of the City Voice of Democracy contest.

Basketball seems to be the word around Lincoln Northeast. After a 61-51 victory over Fairbury and a 78-48 loss from third ranked Columbus last weekend, the Rockets will meet Norfolk tonight at our gym. Then we travel to Bellevue Saturday night for our last game of the season. Good Luck boys! Make these games both victories.

An added attraction to halftime will occur tonight at the Lincoln Northeast-Norfolk game. If you attend the game, you will see the Cadence Countesses from the University of Nebraska perform. The Countesses are a drill team of University coeds who present drills and marches.

Next Wednesday, March 6, is the night of the Class A District games for Lincoln. Director Ralph Beechner announced that the first round pairings will be Pius X and Lincoln High at 7:00, and Northeast and Lincoln Southeast at 8:45. The winners of these two games will play on Friday, March 8. On both nights, the games will be played at the Pershing Auditorium. The Lincoln Northeast faculty members, Max Hester and Barry Moore, are two of the tourney administrative officials. Mr. Hester is the floor manager and Mr. Moore is one of the timers. I hope to see many of you readers at the games giving support to the Rocket team.

Second semester Radio Club officers were selected the other day. The official new trio is composed of Tim Henry, Richard Sommer, and Joel Swanson as president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer respectively. Their sponsor is Evan Boiler.

That's all for now. Until next Friday.

Dear Abby

You're Not At Fault

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have an aunt who is a 36-year-old perpetual husband-hunter. She saw a man who works with me. She liked his looks and asked me to introduce her to him. He said he was unmarried so I saw no harm in it. Well, he asked her for a date and she fell for him hard. She saw him night and day and even went on weekend trips with him. When she pressed for marriage, he told her he had a wife from whom he was only separated because his religion wouldn't sanction divorce. My aunt is brokenhearted and her whole family is blaming me for this mess. Was it MY fault?

GOOD INTENTIONS

DEAR GOOD: When a man tells you he is unmarried, you have a right to assume he is. You were responsible for introducing them, period. If a 36-year-old "husband-hunter" wants to play the game, it's time she learned the game laws.

DEAR ABBY: If your husband came home with the odor of perfume on his shoulder, which you have none of, would you assume he had been close enough to someone to have had the odor rub off on him? Or would you say he had to have somebody's head on his shoulder?

READY TO FILE

DEAR READY: He could be innocent. The head on YOUR shoulder is the one you have to worry about. Don't lose it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I attended a big church wedding and reception. The bride wore a beautiful white gown and veil. Six months later the bride gave birth to a nine-pound baby boy, so I know she must have been expecting at the time of the wedding. They tell me that this is being done all the time. Is this ture, or am I behind the times.

JOAN

DEAR JOAN: You are NOT behind the times. Some babies are ahead of their times.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Apropos the woman who felt "unloved" because her husband never said "I love you": My sister and I recently asked mother to tell us about her courtship days, whether Dad was romantic, and how he proposed to her. She replied, "Your father never said much, and he never once came out and said, 'I love you.' And this is how he proposed, "Well, do you want to get married or don't you?'"

Maybe flowery speeches don't mean much, because Mom and Dad have been happily married for 38 years.

THEIR DAUGHTERS

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I think the jerk who invented Mischief Night (Hallowe'en) must have hated his parents. I am the mother of three frustrated children who are not allowed out on Hallowe'en. I fail to see the humor in poor old Mrs. G. down the street with a bad back having to crawl around mopping up squashed pumpkins. Or Mrs. P. across the street, who is pregnant, having to spend hours unrolling toilet paper from her trees and bushes and scoop up smelly garbage from her overturned garbage pail. The children of this nation should thank God that they are living in a country where there are more comforts, more food and more fun than anywhere in the world. I know, for I was raised in a war-torn country.

The tea will begin at 2 o'clock, and during the afternoon, a talk will be given by Miss Nettie Clark.

Bridge

Responding To Two Notrump

B. Jay Becker

Quiz

Your partner deals and bids Two No trump, next player passes, both sides vulnerable. What would you now bid with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠Q74 ♥952 ♦863 ♣J643
2. ♠653 ♥Q84 ♦KJ72 ♣AQ5
3. ♠85 ♥K98642 ♦93 ♣763
4. ♠Q862 ♥K73 ♦A54 ♣J72
5. ♠6 ♥73 ♦KJ752 ♣AJ964

1. Pass. The opening two notrump bid shows 22 to 24 points, a balanced hand, and strength in all suits. It might therefore be argued that the combined holding could consist of as much as 26 or 27 points and that a raise to three notrump was clearly indicated.

However, there is another factor to consider before bidding three notrump. It is obvious that partner is going to have a considerable amount of trouble reaching dummy to take any finesses he may require. This lack of communication with dummy is apt to prove fatal even if partner has a 24-point opening bid. While it is true that a combined holding of 26 points will ordinarily produce nine or more tricks, this is not the case when one partner holds all, or practically all, the high cards.

2. Six notrump. This is simply a matter of arithmetic. Our 12 points added to partner's 22, 23 or 24 bring us to 34, 35 or 36 points. Only 33 points are required for a small slam (37 for a grand slam). We therefore go right to the slam without further ceremony.

3. Three hearts. Naturally, high-card points are not the sole criterion in judging whether there is a game. We have only 3 points in high cards, but the six-card suit is the equivalent of 3 more. We can probably take five or six tricks with hearts as trump, and the hand is therefore appraised with that in mind. If partner responds four hearts, we pass; if his rebid is three notrump, we go on to four hearts.

4. Four notrump. This bid has nothing to do with Blackwood. It is simply a raise in notrump that requests partner to pass with minimum values, or go on to six with maximum values for his two notrump bid. With 10 points we can't be sure whether the combined values come to 32, 33 or 34 points.

5. Three diamonds. The hand looks slammish, even with only 9 high-card points, and the intention is to contract for a slam eventually in one of our suits. However, the proper trump suit must be found and we therefore follow the usual procedure of first naming the higher ranking of two five-card suits.

If partner's rebid is three notrump, we then bid four clubs. Presumably, he will bid four diamonds or five clubs, and we can then contract for six in the suit of his choice.

ESA Chapter

Mrs. Robert Thoman was hostess at her home Tuesday evening to the members of Gamma Delta Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Guests of the chapter were Miss Mari Dinges and Miss Pat McCormick.

The program was presented by Mrs. Leola Novak, executive director of the LARC Complex, who spoke on, "Retarded Children."

Bridge Group

The bridge department of the Lincoln Woman's Club will meet for an afternoon of cards on Friday, at the Club House. Playing will begin at 1:15 o'clock.

Honored At Party

Host and hostess at their home on Friday evening were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Packard who entertained in courtesy to Dr. J. S. Welch, who will be associated with the Lincoln Clinic.

Guests included Clinic employees.

Why Grow Old?

Help For Dowager's Hump

Josephine Lowman

Correct posture, massage and special exercises can rid you of that age-adding dowagers hump. This exercise also helps the bust line.

A dowagers hump, or the hump at the back of the neck, bothers a lot of women. It is due mostly to habitually poor posture at some period in life.

The very first thing to do, if you have a dowagers hump, is to try to improve the way you carry yourself. Straighten your spine all the way up. Be especially conscious of the neck region. Do not allow the head to protrude forward. This is one of the hints which will help you overcome or prevent this figure defect.

If you can do so, sleep on your back without a pillow. This is also an aid. If you cannot sleep without a pillow, use a small one so that your head is not thrust forward while you slumber.

Special exercises are also helpful. Try the following:

1. Lie on the floor on your back, arms resting at your sides and legs straight. Place a very small pillow or pad under your head. Lift your shoulders from the floor as you roll your head back. The weight is transferred from your shoulders to your head. Hold for a few moments. Return your head to normal position and lower your shoulders to the floor. Continue, slowly.

2. Stand erect, feet together. Raise the arms forward shoulder height, shoulder width apart. Fling the arms sideward, shoulder height. As you do this, raise the head up and lower it backward slightly. Return head to upright position bringing the arms forward at the same time. Never allow the head to protrude forward. Continue.

Collection Agency Licensing Advanced

A bill to create a Nebraska collection agency board to license and regulate collection agencies was advanced Thursday by the Legislature's Banking Committee.

The need for such an agency board, said Sen. W. H. Hasebrooke of West Point, principal introducer, is to provide public protection to the debtor who is paying past-due accounts and it will offer protection to the creditors as well.

Proponents for the bill, LB-510, numbering over 30 from outstate collection agencies, presented to the committee various aspects of the new agency.

Similar Codes

George Wruck, member of the Nebraska Collectors Association, declared that already 22 states have similar legislative codes and approximately 50 agencies at the present time who will come under the provisions of this act.

Stuart Mount, representing the Nebraska Hospital Association in Lincoln, emphasized the need of regulation of the few bad agencies which collect from the debtor and never turn the money over to the creditor.

Opposed to the bill in its present form, but not to the general purpose of the measure were Albert Reddish, representing the Nebraska Bar Association, and Ray Carter, representing the Interstate Collectors Association.

Killed by the committee was LB434, which would have provided for the licensing and regulation of persons engaged in the debt management business.

The committee advanced another bill which would lower interest rates on small loans and raise them on larger ones. This measure, LB-513, had been heard earlier as was LB434.

Also advanced were two Lincoln bills:

LB160, exempting Lincoln bonds from the provisions of redemption and call premiums.

LB510, providing for deposit of Lincoln funds by the city treasurer.

Revenge-Minded Huskers Eye Big Eight Track Crown

. . . PRE-MEET FORM CHART GIVES KANSAS SLIM EDGE OVER NU CREW

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

Kansas City, Mo. — Nebraska's revenge-minded Cornhuskers, still smarting from last year's heart-breaking defeat, take to the boards of Municipal Auditorium here tonight in quest of the 38th annual Big 8 track and field championship.

Although blessed with some standout individuals and considerable depth, the Cornhuskers will have to go some to knock off the Kansas Jayhawks, perennial tormentors of loop track teams.

The form chart this year gives KU a slim edge, 52-49, over Nebraska, with Missouri a close 3rd with 45. After that the chart shows Colorado (28), Oklahoma and Oklahoma State (13), Iowa State (6) and Kansas State (5).

Nebraska figures to score heavily in the mile, low hurdles, 60-yard dash, 880, borad jump, and the 1,000—and if the Huskers come through as expected in these events, they'll be in the thick of the fight.

Standing against the NU bid, which fell just 11/12 of a point shy last year as KU squeezed in, is the lack of proven strength in field events. Only in the broad jump, where Victor Brooks and Rudy Johnson hold forth, are the Huskers given much chance to score.

Harry Krebs, who leaped 6-6 last week, might get in the high jump, but that event is the strongest of the whole meet — with 10 jumpers who have gone 6-5 or better.

It is possible that the two-mile will turn the tide against Nebraska, if the Huskers are still in a commanding position at that time. Kansas and Missouri figure to score heavily in this event by default — a lack of top-notch distance men from other schools.

This situation could change if Bob Griffith of Colorado fails to qualify in the 1,000 tonight and elects to enter the 2-mile, which he won outdoors last spring.

Tonight's program includes only one final event, the broad jump. Brooks has the best leap of the indoor season to date, with 24-½. If Victor and Johnson can pick up 6 or more points tonight, the Huskers will gain a big boost toward the title.

Preliminaries on tonight's program are trails and semifinals in the high and low hurdles and the 60-yard dash, and trails in the 600, 440, 1,000, 880, 440, and shot put.

Action tonight starts at 6:30 p.m. Saturday's final program starts at 8 p.m.

Nebraska will have defending champion Fred Wilke going in the low hurdles and he's a strong contender for a high hurdle double. Mike Fleming, winner of the two-mile here last year and the mile outdoors, will pass up defense of his indoor title and go for blue ribbons in the mile and 1,000.

Other champions on hand to defend titles are Greg Pelster of Missouri (600), Kirk Hagan of Kansas (1,000), Charles Strong of Oklahoma State (440), and Larry Eilert of Iowa State (high jump).

The Huskers will also be counting on Ray Knaub in the 60 and lows (he has the best low hurdle time of :06.8), Ray Stevens in the mile and 880, Gil Gebo in the 600 and 880 for heavy double duty.

Kansas rates the favorite role on history — and the fact the Jayhawks have Gale Sayers, the Omaha gridder who is a solid threat in the 60, lows and broad jump; 15-foot pole vaulter Floyd Manning, 57-foot shot putter Yul Yost, three 6-6 high jumpers, Hagan and some other top-flight middle distance runners, plus two hurdlers who have turned the highs in :07.4.

Some quarters are predicting a Missouri victory and the Tigers could slip in if KU and the Huskers cut each other up.

One thing is certain. The talent and power is almost all concentrated with Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Colorado.

That means there won't be much help coming from the second-division clubs, so the point-cutting will be primarily among the title aspirants.

In other words, a whale of a contest is in store here during the next two nights.

...Heyman, Bonham, Bradds, Harkness Lead

New York (AP)— Art Heyman of Duke, Ron Bonham of Cincinnati and Jerry Harkness of Chicago Loyola, whose exploits helped their teams to national ranking, top the 1963 college basketball All-America announced Thursday by The Associated Press.

Rounding out the first team are Gary Bradds of Ohio State and Barry Kramer of New York University. Heyman and Harkness are seniors, Bonham, Bradds and Kramer juniors.

Two seniors, Rod Thorn of West Virginia and Tom Thacker of Cincinnati, two juniors, Cotton Nash of Kentucky and Walt Hazzard of UCLA, and Princeton's star sophomore, Bill Bradley, make up a second team.

The 3rd team is comprised of Nick Werkman, Seton Hall junior, and 4 seniors, Tony Yates of Cincinnati, Bill Green of Colorado State University, Eddie Miles of Seattle and Jimmy Rayl of Indiana.

Mel Counts of Oregon State, Ken Charlton of Colorado, Jeff Mullins of Duke, Paul Silas of Creighton and Joe Caldwell of Arizona State University head the honorable mention list. The list also includes George Wilson of Cincinnati, Mack Herndon of Bradley, Dave Stallworth of Wichita, Dave Downey of Illinois and Nate Thurmond of Bowling Green.

The 6-foot-5 Heyman, from Rockville Centre, N.Y., sparked the Duke Blue Devils to an unbeaten record in regular season play in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He topped the voting by 183 sports writers and radio-TV broadcasters.

On the basis of 5 points for a first team vote and two points for a second team nod, Heyman polled 142 firsts and 744 points altogether. Bonham, also 6-5, whose hot shooting helped Cincinnati's National Collegiate champions to another Missouri Valley Conference title, was runner-up in the voting with 132 firsts and 706 points.

Harkness, a "small" 6-2 cager who sparked Loyola to 21 straight victories was 3rd with 64 firsts and 428 points, comfortably ahead of the 6-8 Bradds and the 6-4 Kramer.

Double Duty

Kansas City, Mo.—Chances are the Big 8 indoor track title will become the property of the team that does the best job of doubling—get points in more than one event from an individual, that is.

It's interesting to note that Missouri, which is getting considerable house from the form chart set, will have the least number of double-duty entrants.

If the Tigers can get winning performances from enough members of their balanced—but not deep—squad, they might be able to pull off the coup.

Nebraska and Kansas, the other top teams in what figures to be a 3-team chase, are basing their hopes on a considerable number of doublers.

Coach Frank Sevigne plans to run Mike Fleming in the mile and 1,000; Gil Gebo in the 600 and 880; Ray Stevens in the mile and 880; Ray Knaub in the 60-yard dash and low hurdles; and Fred Wilke and Bob Hohn in both hurdle events.

While Hohn isn't expected to cut much of a swatch in his first appearance on the KC boards, the other Huskers must fare well in both their assigned events if NU is going to nab the trophy.

Tigers Spread

Missouri's chief doubler is Greg Pelster, who will defend his 600-yard run title and try to add the 880 crown. The only other Tiger slated for twin-duty is hurdler Bob Ward.

Kansas will rely heavily on middle distance doubles. Bill Stoddart is in the 600 and 440; Dave Crandall the 60 and 440; Bill Cottle the 600 and 880 and Ted Miesinger the mile and 880. Jayhawk Gale Sayers is another key man in the KU strategy—he's booked for the 60, low hurdles and the broad jump.

Pat McNeal of Kansas State and Bob Griffith of Kansas State can play a big part in determining the eventual meet winner, too. Both are entered in the mile and 1,000—perhaps the strongest field in the oval events.

Rest Time

The resting time between events plays a big part in double-point production. Here's the chart:

High hurdles-low hurdles	30 minutes
600-880	55 minutes
60-440	60 minutes
Mile-880	75 minutes
Mile-1,000	65 minutes
Mile-2-mile	50 minutes

Slamming the highs and lows has been accomplished more than any other double—14 times to be exact. And 6 Nebraskans have achieved two blue ribbons in Big 8 hurdle competition.

The list includes Keith Gardner (1958), Dan Tolman (1953), Don Bedker (1952), Norval Barker (1945), Bill Smutz (1941) and Lloyd Cardwell (1936). Fred Wilke, defending champ in the lows and a leading candidate in the highs this year, has a chance to join the list.

Neat Trick

A double in the mile and 2-mile—a grind, to say the least—has been accomplisheed only once. Floyd Lochner of Oklahoma turned the trick in 1936.

Gene Littler of Nebraska became the first to double in the 60-yard dash and the 440, winning both in 1940. Kansas State's Thane Baker pulled it off in 1952 and 1953.

Kansas has had the greatest success in producing mile-880 champs at the same meet. Jayhawks Bill Dotson (1962), Al Frame (1956), Wes Santee (1953-1954) and Glenn Cunningham (1934) got the job done. Only other loop runner to register a mile-and-a-half double was Nebraska's Bobby Ginn in 1947.

To date no one has managed to double in the 600 and 880 or the mile and 1,000. The 600 and 1,000 were added to the program only 5 years ago.

Husker Fleming would love to become the first to win the mile and the 1,000—and his 10 points would be mighty welcome. But it will be a tough job.

At this writing defending 1,000-yard champion Kirk Hagan of Kansas has indicated he'll concentrate solely on that event. Thus, Hagan will be fresh while his chief competitors—Fleming, Griffith and McNeal all will have battled in the mile before challenging Hagan.

Midwest Dominates UPI Basketball All-America

New York, (UPI) — Art Heyman of Duke was the outstanding choice Friday on the 1963 United Press International All-America basketball team which is exceptionally versatile, well-balanced and dominated by 4 players from the Midwest.

Ron Bonham and Tom Thacker, key men in Cincinnati's hold on the No. 1 national ranking all season long; jump-shooting Jerry Harkness of Loyola (Ill.) and 6-foot-8 Gary Bradds of Ohio State were the 4 honored players representing the midwest colleges.

The UPI All-America team is chosen each year strictly according to a nationwide pole of subscriber sports writers and radio-TV broadcasters. A total of 247 cast their ballots this year.

This year's voters ignored not only geographic distribution but also many of the nation's highest scoring hotshots. Instead, they voted largely for team value, clutch performance and many of the diversified skills that gladden a coach's heart.

Bill To Ban Snagging Is OKd, 28-7

Nebraska Lawmakers gave 28-7 first round approval Thursday to a bill which would prohibit fish snagging in any Nebraska waters.

The advancement from general file was accorded LB621, introduced by Sens. Richard Lysinger of Ravenna and Albert Kjar of Lexington.

Rejected were two different proposals to tone down the snagging ban.

An amendment proposed by the agriculture committee which heard the bill, exempting the Missouri river from the ban on snagging, was defeated 11-24.

An amendment proposed by Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton which would have permitted snagging between Nov. 1 and April 1 each year was rejected 11-22.

Sen. Frank Nelson of O'Neill, agriculture committee chairman, said legislative intervention has become necessary because "the Game Commission has not exercised the authority they said they would exercise."

Nelson termed the snagging hooks "a murderous weapon" and said "we are trying to make it safe for the fishermen to fish in the state of Nebraska."

District Title To Hickman

. . . NIPS FIRTH, 34-32

By DON SUMMERSIDE
Star Sports Writer

Rollie Church connected on a 10-foot jumper with 6 seconds remaining in the game Thursday night to give Hickman a 34-32 win over Firth and the Class D district championship at the Pius X gymnasium.

Church's two-pointer climaxed a tense and evenly-contested battle that saw neither team with more than a 4-point lead.

Both clubs combined a deliberate offense with a pressing defense. Both went all the way with just 5 men.

Hickman entered the 4th quarter on the short end of a 25-23 count. Three minutes later, Firth had widened the gap to 29-25, a margin that appeared fairly sizable in view of the sparse scoring.

Schmutte Rallies

But Jerry Schmutte's two free throws with 2:41 left knotted the game once more at 30-30. Schmutte had constituted the entire Hickman offensive 4th-quarter output up to that moment, contributing 7 points.

The last 4 points of the period came from Rollie Church. The 6-3 junior pivotman worked loose in the slowed-down Bulldog pattern and hit a layup with 1:14 to go.

Jerry Lowe retaliated for Firth with a short jumper to tie the game with 37 seconds remaining.

Hits Clincher

Hickman then played for one last shot and again worked Rollie Church free, this time for the clincher.

Firth could manage only a frantic full-court heave as time ran out.

Schmutte took game scoring honors with 15 points; teammate Rollie Church was close behind with 13. Kenny Walvoord topped the Firth effort with 10 markers.

Despite the aggressive defensive tactics, only 6 fouls were whistled in the first half and a total of 17 for the game.

Hickman now advances to the 'D' playoff at Milford next week.

The win gave the Bulldogs a 2-1 edge in the 3 games played between the two schools this year.

Lawrence, Chester To Meet Finals

Hebron—Chester needed an overtime to edge Ruskin 60-57 and Lawrence downed Guide Rock 39-31 in the semifinals of the Class D district Thursday night.

Guide Rock netted only two points in the 3rd period to enable Lawrence to gain the victory. Guide Rock trailed by a slim 3 points at half, 20-17, before the fatal 3rd stanza.

Robert Petr led the winners with 13 and Rich Hoins had 13 for Guide Rock.

In the evening finale, Chester jumped to an 18-9 first canto lead, but Ruskin gradually narrowed the margin to a 55-55 tie at the end of regulation play.

Ruskin pulled within 3 at half, 29-26, but Chester pulled away to a 44-37 3rd period lead. An 18-point rally by Ruskin in the last quarter knotted the score at the buzzer.

Chester potted 5 points while Ruskin netted only 2 in the overtime to gain the 3-point victory.

Jerry Johnson tallied 15 for the winners, but Bruce Alderman was the night's top point-getter with 19 for Ruskin.

Hordville mounted a 26-21 intermission margin, then opened up in the last two periods to post a 65-51 win over Silver Creek.

Conference Set On Fishing Feud

South Dakota Atty. Gen. Frank Farrar is to confer with Nebraska Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer Friday morning about legal solutions to a dispute between the two states over fishing privileges on the Missouri River.

The meeting was arranged by South Dakota Gov. Archie Gubbrud, who telephoned Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday afternoon. Morrison said that Gubbrud and possibly Walter J. Fillmore of the South Dakota Game Department may accompany Farrar.

The Nebraska Game Commission in December cancelled a long-standing agreement between the two states covering fishing license privileges in Missouri River boundary waters.

Recently, Game Commission Director Mel Steen said beginning Mar. 1, Nebraska game officers will begin a crackdown on South Dakota fishermen in Nebraska waters without a Nebraska license.

. . . MEAD, CERESCO LOSE

By GENE BUDIG
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Wahoo—Valley and Cedar Bluffs Thursday night advanced to the finals of the Class C district 4 tournament.

Neither Valley nor Mead impressed offensively in a game which saw the score knotted 13 times. Faulty passes especially plagued the losers.

The nightcap went down to the wire with Ceresco ending up on the short end, 44-43.

In winning, Cedar Bluffs capitalized on several Ceresco hot-and-cold spells.

Big Don Tejral, the game's standout, kept Ceresco alive with 17 points and numerous rebounds.

The championship game will be played at 7:30 Friday night.

Odell, Pawnee City Get Wins To Enter Finals

By DEAN TERRILL
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Pawnee City—It'll be the hometown Indians against Odell here for the Class C district title Friday night.

A touch of extra consistency keynoted both clubs in semi-finals play to earn them the championship go. Pawnee City outpointed Peru Prep, 59-48, and Odell outlasted Dawson-Verdon, 55-46.

Taking advantage of home-court familiarity, coach Bruce Smith's quintet slightly outdid Peru in each quarter to shape a 13th season's victory.

The visitors held one short-lived lead in the opening canto and tied at 19-19 in the second, then began fading.

Well-scattered scoring by the winners saw Jack Hall hit for 16, Max Martin and Mike Dusenbery for a dozen each. Compact Leland Blankenship and Mike Tynon, 5-8 and 5-9, evened at 12 for Peru Prep.

Odell's Tigers stayed just at teasing range throughout, widening to 11 points only seconds before the buzzer. Dawson-Verdon held an edge briefly as the first frame ended, but robbed themselves of the lead through a 2 for 10 free throw showing before intermission.

Coach Jerry Rupprecht called a control game much of the 4th quarter, which forced the losers into several costly errors. The spread was only 5 points, however, with 4 minutes left.

A pair of dead-eye 5-9ers, David Anderson and LeRoy Vitsh, bulls-eyed 19 and 18 points to pace Odell. Doug Heim—same size, other team, hit for 14.

Dawson-Verdon	16	10	12	8	46

Port Huron Stops Knights By 2-0

Marcel Goyette collected Port Huron's first goal at 6:43 of the 3 period. Gerry Moore added another goal less than 5 minutes later.

Omaha's loss cut the Knights' lead over Port Huron and St. Paul, tied for 5th, to 3 games.

Albers Doubtful Dual Performer

Nebraska's gymnastic team goes against Mankato State and Kansas State in a double dual here Saturday.

Dennis Albers is recovering from a bruised shoulder suffered in a fall. Whether he will be able to compete is still in doubt. Albers has been a standout in the 10-1 record which the Huskers have compiled during the regular season.

Mankato beat Nebraska in a dual a year ago and the Minnesota team returned all but one member of that team.

2nd-Ranked Utica Clears Major Test

. . . EAST BUTLER OUT

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

York— Second-ranked Utica survived its first major test in returning to the Class C state basketball tournament.

The Tigers, leading all the way, knocked off 3rd-ranked Henderson, 51-43, in the semifinals of the Class C district here.

Fourth-rated East Butler wasn't so fortunate, losing a 43-37 overtime struggle to Stromsburg.

The two winners will meet Saturday night at 8 p.m. for the championship. They haven't played each other this year. Utica has a 17-1 record and Stromsburg is 13-3.

Utica jumped to a 14-4 lead in the first quarter, then spent the next 3 periods battling off the hustling Huskies from Henderson.

Henderson's plight might have been better without a cold spell that left them without a point for the first 3½ minutes.

Chuck Friesen, normally Henderson's top scorer, didn't get a field goal until midway in the 3rd period. Meanwhile all-stater Larry Semin was tossing in 16 points and batting down numerous Henderson basket attempts to keep Utica at least 4 points ahead.

East Butler's loss came after an early 9-1 lead and even an 18-9 spread.

Coach Ernie Behne's team stalled out the last 3½ minutes of the first half which ended 18-13 East Butler.

Stromsburg quickly closed the gap in the 3rd period and had a 4-point lead 31-27 with 3 minutes left in the game. East Butler countered to tie with two minutes left, then a hectic windup of the regulation time found the score knotted at 35-35.

Rich Lamoree was the lifesaver for Stromsburg. He tied the game with a free throw with one second left. He missed a chance at heroism by missing his second charity shot, but started Stromsburg off on the right foot in the overtime with the extra stanza's only field goal.

Six Stromsburg free throws followed before Ernie Novak garnered a pair of points for East Butler.

East Butler	14	4	7	10	2—37
Stromsburg	8	5	14	8	8—43

Winners high: Rich Lamoree, 14; losers high: Ernie Novak, John Hurt, Don Rejda, 10 each.

Utica	14	12	15	10	51
Henderson	4	14	17	8	43

Winners high: Larry Semin, 16; losers high; Ron Regier, 14.

Golden Gloves Group May Back Championships

Kenosha, Wis. (UPI) — The National Golden Gloves Association has decided to continue the Tournament of Champions, which was relinquished earlier this week by the Chicago Tribune, according to Jim Barnhill, president of the national organization.

Barnhill, managing editor of the Kenosha News, said the organization voted unanimously to continue, pending the changing of the national Amateur Athletic Union rule that all amateur boxers must wear headgears.

"I have appointed a committee to approach the AAU on the matter of rescinding the rule," Barnhill said. "We are very optimistic that we will have a solid answer within 10 days."

Bids to the Tournament of Champions have been received from Louisville, Denver, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Kansas City and Lowell, Mass., Barnhill said. He said 3 of the cities — Louisville, Cincinnati and Kansas City — have offered $5,000 guarantees to be pro-rated among the competing teams for traveling expenses.

Sophomores Tallest

Larry Bailey of Towanda, Pa., and Eric Weber of Buffalo are both 6-feet-6 and the tallest players on the Syracuse basketball team. They are sophomores.

Prep Spotlight On Big 10

. . . COLUMBUS TRAVELS TO McCOOK

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

The Big 10 Conference basketball playoff Saturday night returns the prep spotlight to the big schools for the weekend.

Nightly district tournament action for Class C and D schools have dominated the scene all week.

The playoff game, with east champion Columbus traveling to the west titlist's gymnasium, will begin at 8 p.m.

Columbus will bring a 15-1 record into the contest along with the state's 3rd-ranked credentials. McCook is a step behind in each case, 14-2 and ranked 4th.

Lincoln teams, for the most part, will be scrambling to avoid sub .500 seasons.

Southeast is doomed to this era, carrying a 6-won, 8-lost record into its final game at home Friday against Boys Town.

Northeast, also 6-8, plays twice and could get even. On Friday Norfolk vists the NE gym then Saturday the Rockets travel to Bellevue (8-6) for the season finale.

Pius X, with 8 victories in 14 games, can't slip in two road games or the Thunderbolts may find themselves at the .500 mark.

Pius is at Nebraska City Friday and Fairbury Saturday.

The winningest teams close out against the toughest opposition.

Class B University High takes its 13-2 season record to Blair. The Tutors are 5th ranked in Class B and Blair 7th.

Lincoln High, in a two-game losing streak and carrying a 9-5 mark, will call it quits against Omaha South at the Activities Building Friday night.

Top games:

Columbus at McCook (Sat.)—McCook's big boys haven't played the likes of Columbus' frontline. A nod to the East Big 10.

Lincoln Uni High at Blair—A must win if University High can stack up well in tournament.

Omaha South at Lincoln High—Back to winners circle for LHS.

Omaha Central at Omaha Tech—No stopping the Trojans of Tech.

Norfolk at Northeast—Home close out victory for NE.

Elmwood Comeback Wins D Title

Elmwood staged a fantastic comeback Thursday night to win the Class D-8 district tournament at Lincoln Northeast, defeating Alvo-Eagle, 56-52, in an overtime.

The winners trailed by 12 points with 39 seconds remaining in the 3rd quarter.

They whittled it down to 10 at the quarter break, edged within 8 early in the final period, but lagged by 10 with 7 minutes to play.

A full court press completely wrecked Alvo-Eagle and Elmwood quickly tallied 7 straight points to creep within 3 at 45-42 with 5:29 to go.

Gary Atkins two free throws eased Alvo-Eagle tension momentarily and Doug Johnson's single charity toss appeared to get his club out of hot water, 48-42 with 4:13 remaining.

But Elmwood's Bryce Doebele scored a bucket, countered by another Doug Johnson fielder.

With the score 50-44 and 3:23 to play, Elmwood went to work.

Clayton Miller meshed a shot with 3:06 left. Doebele then missed two free throws and a 1-1 bonus throw situation to slow the attack.

Off the bench came Larry Ahrens, a 5-11 junior reserve. He hit a jumper with 2:16 left before the clubs took turns losing the ball on traveling violations.

Alvo-Eagle lost the ball on an offensive foul with 1:30 to play and Ahrens pumped in another shot to knot it 50-all at 1:17.

Traveling violations again kept both clubs from wrapping it up in regulation time.

Alvo-Eagle lost the ball with 31 seconds to go, followed by an Elmwood bobble at 19 seconds. Alvo-Eagle then had control for only 6 seconds before another foul-up.

Elmwood had control for the final 13 seconds of regulation play, but couldn't get a shot off.

The overtime was all Elmwood after Arlan Hollenbeck garnered a bucket with 1:32 played. Joel Bornemeier netted two free throws with 28 seconds left and Doebele hit another pair from the foul stripe with 17 seconds to go. Six seconds earlier Doug Johnson had scored Alvo-Eagle's lone overtime basket.

Johnson had a big night with 33 points. Twenty-one of these came in the first half when he scored almost at will.

Elmwood now advances to the district playoff at Milford Mar. 6, facing the winner of the Hampton-Beaver Crossing game at 8 p.m. The finals will be staged Mar. 7 at 7:30 p.m.

CARMICHAEL

Burney Favors State Income Tax 'To Correct Present Inequities'

Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney said Thursday he favors a state income tax as a means "to correct the present inequitable tax base."

A state income tax, Burney said, will "put this state in business and I believe, improve our economic plight."

Nebraska cannot expect to lure industry, Burney said, "until we give it a tax climate favorable to industrial growth. Such a climate does not now exist."

The former Republican governor said he thinks the income tax bill pending before the Legislature "is a good bill" and "has a fair chance of passing. It all depends on how those senators who are currently undecided will cast their ballot when the bill comes to a vote."

Tax Inequitable

Burney said the present state property tax setup is "inequitable" and "unfair" because "one person may invest his savings in insurance, building and loan or government bonds and pay practically no tax in Nebraska. While on the other hand a man who puts his savings into tangible property pays a heavy tax."

Nebraska needs, Burney said, more investment in tangible property in "order to furnish jobs for our citizens. We should encourage, not discourage, investment in property."

If the Legislature sidesteps tax reform this session, Burney said, "the State of Nebraska will be the loser."

Commenting on another subject, Burney said he sees nothing wrong with two "states' rights" resolutions currently pending before the Legislature and "I feel they will pass."

The resolutions propose to make it easier for states to amend the U.S. Constitution and to prohibit federal court intervention in state reapportionment matters.

Passed By Some

Both were drafted by the Council of State Governments in December, 1962. They have been introduced in numerous state legislatures, having already been passed by some.

"I think the states feel if the federal courts have the right to intervene in reapportionment matters, then it will enter into many other fields by using the same argument," Burney said.

The major point, Burney said, the resolutions are attempting to clear up is interpretation of the Federal Constitution.

"The federal government has been overstepping what many people accepted as wholly state authority. But, under our constitution, the federal government has a right to do so," he said.

The resolutions, Burney said, propose to take this right away from the federal government.

Contractors Tax Bill Is Approved

A Terry Carpenter tax bill designed to make sure that contractors doing business with the state pay taxes on their equipment was passed 34-7 by the Nebraska Legislature Thursday.

The measure, LB126, carried the emergency clause which will make it effective as soon as the governor signs the bill.

The bill applies to all persons, partnerships, associations or corporations involved in public improvement projects for the state or any other political subdivision.

As originally introduced by the Scottsbluff Senator, LB126 would have required contractors to register with the state each piece of equipment used on public improvement projects and furnish proof that taxes on the equipment had been paid.

The bill was toned down en route to final passage, however, to require merely that the contractor furnish a certified statement attached to equipment involved has been assessed.

Fines of $100 to $500 are provided for anyone falsifying this statement.

Voting against LB126 on final reading were Sens. Cecil Craft of North Platte, W. H. Hasebroock of West Point, Sam Klaver of Omaha, Fern Orme of Lincoln, Fred O. Gottschalk of Columbus, Michael Russillo of Omaha and Matt Wylie of Elgin.

Other bills passed on final reading:

LB208 (Burbach, Bahensky) — Establishing a $25 minimum annual payment to the state by self insurers under the Nebraska Workmen's Compensation Act. (40-0).

LB202 (Brandt) — Authorizing reasonable payments to guardians of wards during periods covered by the accounts. (41-0).

LB149 (Judiciary Committee—Harmonizing provisions of game and fish laws with previous legislation. (39-0).

LB148 (Judiciary Committee)—Harmonizing provisions of criminal procedure law with previous legislation. (40-0).

LB254 (R. Rasmussen, Haasebroock)—Requiring townships to file annual reports of the total cost of construction, repair and maintenance of roads in the township. (40-0).

To Draft Tourism Promotion Bill

Sen. Le Roy Bahensky of St. Paul said Thursday he will have drafted a bill proposing that the state sell promotion stamps as a means to raise revenue for Nebraska tourism.

Bahensky said his decision to draft his heretofore "idea" into legislation was prompted by interest expressed recently by the petroleum and hotel and motel industries and various chambers of commerce.

Peru's Tom Yopp hit 17 points.

Wayne took a 41-28 lead at the half.

Beautiful Creation

Any Irishman worth his brogue will tell you that Killarney is probably the most beautiful spot this side of heaven.

Three lovely loughs, or lakes, surround this tiny town in the county of Kerry, cradled in an emerald valley by Macgillicuddy's Reeks, Ireland's highest mountains.

So beautiful is it, that, surely, this must be the land where the leprechauns live and work under the Fairy Thorns sheltered by the fragrant Kerry arbutus which covers the green fields.

Do you wonder, then, we were inspired to christen this beautiful creation Killarney Cherry Cake? We created it to honor Ireland's patron saint, for you to enjoy, come St. Patrick's Day.

KILLARNEY CHERRY CAKE

(Makes 9-inch layer cake)

1 package (1 pound, 2½ onces) fudge cake mix
¼ cup creme de menthe, or 1 teaspoon peppermint extract
½ cup chopped green maraschino cherries (about 20 cherries)
1½ cups heavy cream
3 tablespoons creme de menthe, or ½ teaspoon peppermint extract and
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
¼ cup whole green maraschino cherries (about 10 cherries)
Chocolate curls

Prepare cake mix following package directions, substituting ¼ cup creme de menthe for ¼ cup of the water or adding 1 teaspoon peppermint extract. Stir in ½ cup chopped cherries; pour into 2 greased 9-inch layer cake pans and bake as directed. Cool.

Whip heavy cream, with 3 tablespoons creme de menthe or ½ teaspoon peppermint extract and 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar. Spread one-third of the whipped cream between the cake layers. Heap remaining whipped cream on top. Arrange whole cherries and chocolate curls over whipped cream, as desired.

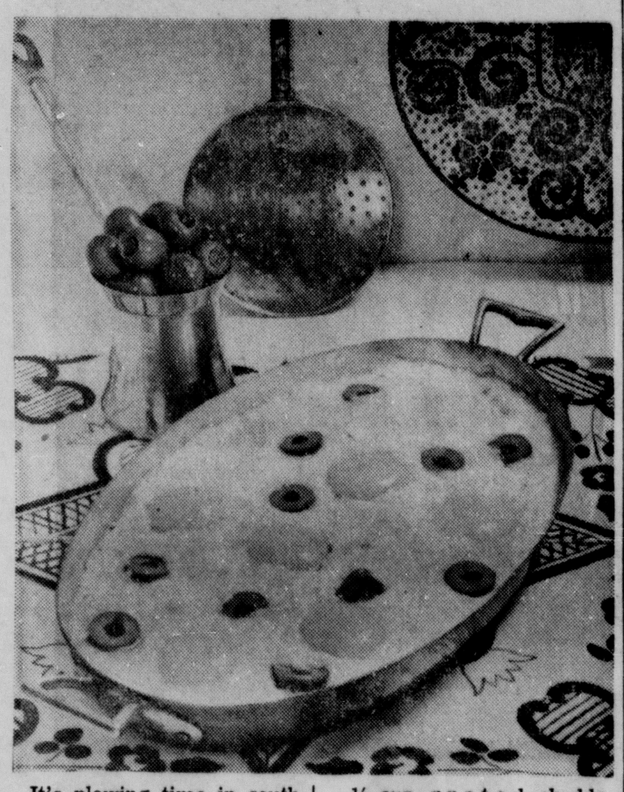
MERINGUE GLACE

(Makes 6 servings)

1 quart chocolate ice cream
⅓ cup chopped filberts
⅓ cup chopped green maraschino cherries (about 15 cherries)
6 meringue nests (each about a 4-inch circle) homemade or bought.
Creme de menthe or maraschino cherry juice
¼ cup whole green maraschino cherries (about 10 cherries)

Soften ice cream; fold in nuts and ⅓ cup chopped cherries; freeze. At serving time scoop ice cream into meringue nest; drizzle 1 to 2 tablespoons creme de menthe or cherry juice over each. Garnish with whole cherries.

A Spanish Custom



It's plowing time in southern Spain now . . . on Majorca . . . wherever the olive trees grow. In many places oxen still pull the wooden plows, guided by a farmer, just as they have for centuries. The mineral-rich, rust-red earth falls away in straight furrows beneath the silvery green leaves of the trees. Nearby, delicate pink blossoms are bursting forth on the almond trees. Down the center of the road comes a shepherd and his flock of merino sheep, wearing bells that tinkle softly as they crop the tender new shoots along the roadside. Life is simple and peaceful in rural Spain, and so is the food.

It often centers around eggs. Baked Eggs with Olives are a favorite supper dish. This pimiento-stuffed fruit goes particularly well with eggs. Also adding flavor are cheese and ham. Spain, like France, has a variety of cheeses — none too readily available here, so we've substituted Swiss Gruyere in our version of this Spanish favorite, but any mild cheese will work as well.

HUEVOS CON ACEITUNAS
Baked Eggs with Olives
(Makes 4 servings)

¼ pound cooked ham, chopped
½ cup grated cheddar cheese
8 eggs
¼ cup sliced, pimiento-stuffed olives.
Salt and pepper
½ cup cream or milk

Place ham in baking dish, 4 greased individual casseroles or large custard cups (10 ounce size.) Sprinkle cheese over ham. Break eggs into dish; sprinkle with olives, salt and pepper and pour cream over top. Bake in 350 (moderate) oven 10 minutes or until eggs are set.

QUICHE LORRAINE WITH OLIVES
(Makes 9-inch tart)

3 eggs
1 pint half and half
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¼ cup chopped, pimiento-stuffed olives
¼ pound cooked ham, chopped
Uncooked 9-inch pie shell
¼ pound Swiss cheese, grated
Whole pimiento-stuffed olives

Beat together eggs, half and half, salt and pepper; add chopped olives and ham. Pour egg mixture into pie shell; sprinkle cheese on top. Bake in 400 (hot) oven 30 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Garnish Quiche with olives; cool 10 minutes before serving.

Always Good

STUFFED LOBSTER TAILS

6-8 frozen lobster tails
1 small onion, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
2 sprigs parsley, minced
½ cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons oil

Thaw lobster tails. Cut under shells with kitchen shears and remove them. Skewer tails in place to prevent curling, and place in broiler pan cut side down. Broil at medium heat, or 3-4 inches from unit in electric broiler, for 5 minutes. Turn cut side up and cover with dressing made by mixing together onion, garlic, and parsley, bread crumbs, and oil. Return to broiler 6-8 minutes longer, depending on size of lobster.

Buffet Supper Extra

This appetizing Hearty could be either the hot dish for a buffet supper party, made up double in quantity, or the satisfying main dish for a family meal. And maybe you'd better make it double size for the family, too, to take care of the inevitable second helpings demand.

APPLE CHEESE MACARONI

1 large onion, sliced
½ pound elbow macaroni, cooked
1 cup (1 8-ounce can) tomato sauce
2 cups canned apple sauce
¼ pound process sharp cheese, grated (1 cup)
Generous pinch curry powder
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

Fry bacon until crisp; drain on paper towels. Reserve 4 or 5 slices for garnish; crumble remaining slices. Saute onion slices in a little of the bacon drippings. Combine all ingredients, stirring in crumbled bacon; season to taste with salt and pepper. Turn mixture into a 2 quart greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, 25 minutes. About 5 minutes before cooking is completed, arrange reserved bacon slices on top of casserole mixture. Makes 4-6 servings.

Put This In The "Win" Column

Round steak is both tasty and tender when prepared like this, thanks to ever handy canned tomato sauce which adds extra richness and nourishment too. Try serving some separately to be spooned over the rolls for additional color and flavor.

Compliment the steak rolls with sliced yellow turnips, baked potatoes with sour cream and chives, refillable glasses of milk, and you serve health and good nutrition.

TOMATO ROUND STEAK ROLLS
(4-6 servings)

1¼ pounds round steak
Unseasoned meat tenderizer
2 medium onions, chopped.
3 sprigs parsley, chopped.
6 slices bacon, cut up.
1 3-ounce can sliced or chopped mushrooms, drained (reserve liquid)
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 bouillon cube
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce

Cut steak in two slices. Pound each slice until it is about ¼ inch thick, sprinkle with meat tenderizer. Cook chopped onions, parsley, and drained mushrooms with bacon for about 5 minutes.

Cut each slice in three sections. Spread about 3 tablespoons of vegetable mixture on each piece and roll tightly. Fasten with toothpicks or tie string.

Brown the steak rolls in the hot bacon fat. Add mushroom liquid, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, bouillon cube, and tomato sauce. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15 to 20 minutes.

Public Schools Suffer From Growing Pains

Washington (AP)—Public education, one of the nation's biggest and fastest booming activities, is suffering from growing pains.

A statistics-packed report issued Thursday by the National Education Association (NEA) says there were 46,382,261 school-age youngsters in the United States last July 1, and 40,007,912 actually enrolled in public schools this year.

Public school enrollments have jumped a whopping 44.6% since the 1952-53 school year.

36% 17 Or Under

The school-age population, 5 to 17, represents one of every 4 Americans. Altogether, 36% of the nation's total population is 17 or under.

These youngsters attend elementary or secondary school an average of 178 days a year, ranging from 182.1 days in Missouri to 169.2 days in Kentucky.

And they move around, too. In Alaska, almost half the population 5 years old or older moved from one school district to another between 1955 and 1960. For the nation as a whole, 17.4% of the over-5 population was on the move during the 5-year period.

Directions

The NEA report, "Rankings of the States," did not attempt in its 90 different charts to rank the states on educational quality. It posted some direction signs, however.

It showed, for instance, that Utah has the highest average education and tied for the lowest percentage of Selective Service registrants failing the mental test. South Carolina tied for the lowest average education, and led in mental test failures.

In the median number of $4,364.

Thus, Mississippi is spending slightly more than 5% of its personal income for public school education, New York is spending slightly less than 5%.

Other comparisons:

In Oklahoma, 99.7% of the elementary school teachers have a B.A. degree, represchool years completed by residents aged 25 or over, Utah had the high mark of 12.2 years, only slightly better than Alaska, California, Colorado, Nevada and Washington, each with 12.1 years.

At The Bottom

Kentucky and South Carolina were at the bottom of this list, showing a median of 8.7 years.

The report, compiled by the NEA Research Division, showed that New York state with $645 leads the nation in money spent on current expenditures for each pupil in average daily attendance in elementary and secondary schools.

Mississippi, with $230, is ranked 50th and last in this category.

'A' For Effort

In New York, there is $12,-918 in personal income for every schoolage child. In Mississippi there is just senting at least 4 years of college preparation. In South Dakota, the figure is 17.6%.

Top Enrollment

California leads in total public school enrollment this year with 4,153,812, followed by New York with 3,088,000 and Texas with 2,291,279.

Four states enroll fewer than 100,000: Wyoming, Delaware, Vermont and Alaska.

In North Carolina, 98.6% of all children enrolled in elementary and secondary schools are in the public schools. Rhode Island, on the other hand, has 27.9% of its pupils in private and parochial schools.

For the country as a whole, 86.4% of the school children are in public schools.

MRS. BRADY . . . shows sons honesty pays.

Honest Lady Gets Lost $5,000

Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—Sterling honesty and a sharp pair of brown eyes paid off in a $5,000 jackpot for pretty Mrs. John M. Brady of Birmingham.

Mrs. Brady found a roll of 50 $100 bills while vacationing in Paramus, N.J., last summer. She turned the money over to police — an act which brought cries of derision from some quarters.

But her honesty was rewarded Wednesday night when the borough council voted unanimously to give her the money after a search failed to yield the original owner

Feels Good

"It was just like finding it all over again," Mrs. Brady said Thursday. "You just don't know how swell it feels. It's unbelievable. It makes you feel that honesty has a purpose after all."

There was never any doubt what to do with the money, she said — "We knew right away we would have to turn it over to the authorities."

The "we" included Mrs. Brady and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bryan of Teaneck, N.J.

Found In Lot

Mrs. Brady was riding with a friend when she saw the money in a restaurant parking lot.

"Stop!" she yelled.

While she was counting it, her parents drove up.

"At first we considered taking it into the restaurant, but then we figured anyone could have claimed it so we took it to the police station," she said. "There were some startled officers when I handed them the money.

Send Out Notice

"They checked it all out for counterfeit and sent out a 13-state notice. It was carried in all of the New York and New Jersey papers, television and radio, but no one ever claimed it."

Mrs. Brady retained a lawyer in Paramus to press her claim.

Her father said after the council's decision that "my faith is restored in the integrity of human beings. In addition, maybe now some of my neigobors will stop calling my daughter stupid for turning the money in."

Salt-Wahoo Farming Limited To Development

Farming for recreation development and not crop production will be the plans of the Nebraska Game Commission for land acquired near Corps of Engineer Dams in the Salt-Wahoo Watershed.

"Any reports that the Game Commission is plowing up grass land to produce price supported crops near Salt Wahoo Dams are without basis and are only rumor," said Willard Barbee, chief of the division of land management for the Game Commission.

Barbee's answer was in response to farmer complaints at the annual Lancaster Farm and Home Day.

Contracts Made

"No move whatsoever to plow up sod will be made. We have made contracts with local farmers to seed down grass on land that has been acquired near the dams to furnish sod for recreational purposes," said Barbee.

He estimated that the completed structures could be furnishing recreational advantages within the year and this would require a fast establishment of grass cover to have the areas ready to go as soon as possible.

To protect the structures and to aid in development of fish and wildlife, some areas near the structures will be seeded to heavy growth or sudan or fast growing forage to stop silt and to supply feed for fish and wildlife as the structures fill with water, the Game Commission spokesman explained.

Politician Quips

Des Moines Iowa (UPI) — Rep. Alvin Meyer, Democrat who introduced a bill to allow parimutuel horse and dog race betting in Iowa, missed a roll call in the lower house of the legislature. William Kendrick, house secretary quipped, "He must be in Las Vegas".

Renegotiation Of Bruning Airbase Pact Ruhnke Goal

Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth Thursday said he will introduce a legislative resolution urging the State Department of Aeronautics to renegotiate its Bruning airbase contract if LB75 is enacted into law.

The bill, advanced from general file, would tax private personal property on airbases for school district purposes.

If the measure is approved, the Seaboard Allied Milling Corp., which operates a cattle feeding operation at the Bruning airbase, would be faced with double taxation.

It currently pays tuition in lieu of taxes for children residing on the base, according to its contract with the Aeronautics Department.

An attorney general's opinion—prepared for Sen. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont—states that the contract may be renegotiated to reduce or eliminate school tuition payments by the corporation.

There are about 100 less controls, instruments and displays in the cockpit of a jetliner than in the cockpit of late piston engine airliners.

Marvel Narrates Chamber Effort Backing Budget Group's Approach

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska State Chamber of Commerce and Associated Industries of Nebraska Thursday previewed for the press a color slide and sound program it will distribute over the state to encourage support for the Budget Committee's approach to state fiscal matters.

The 20-minute film presentation is narrated by Budget Committee Chairman Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings and was produced by the joint legislation committee of NSCC and AIN for distribution to clubs and organizations.

The NSCC-AIN program calls on Nebraskans to contact state legislators, newspaper editors, friends and neighbors to encourage support of the "present Budget Committee procedure, retaining a state budget analyst, and fiscal responsibility in state government and opposition to waste in government departments."

Approach Described

In the film presentation Marvel describes the "functional" approach to budgeting adopted by the committee two years ago, and the need as he sees it to restore the balance of power between the people and the administrative branch of government through the Legislature.

Administrators, Marvel said, have "achieved a powerful position" by moving forward into an area vacated in the past by legislators. Returning the legislator to his proper area will "not (be) easily accomplished," he added.

"I feel sure that the overwhelming majority of Nebraskans want to spend what is necessary for the services they desire," Marvel stated in the narration, "but they have a right to insist upon receiving a full dollar's worth of service for every dollar we spend. And they should insist that the legislators demand detailed explanation for proposed expenditure of tax money."

This includes not only justification of increases requested, but an agency's entire budget through evaluation of existing programs, he explained.

The Budget chairman states that the committee is "not interested in economizing just for the sake of economy, nor do we agree with those who think all problems are solved by spending."

'Little Control"

Marvel is critical of the "shamefully little control" now exercised over the state's institutional building fund levy, and describes it as "getting out of hand."

Other areas lacking proper supervision are the existing judicial and teacher retirement programs, he stated, adding that in his judgment that "as we commit this state to the future payment of retirement benefits, we should be absolutely certain that we know where the money is coming from and that it will be there when it is needed."

Under the functional approach to budgeting, and establishment of the legislative fiscal analyst staff, Marvel said the state now has "the tools, the staff and the system to provide efficient budgeting and effective government."

Following the film preview, NSCC President Richard Spelts Jr. of Grand Island was asked by newsmen whether the film was designed to promote Marvel as a future candidate for governor.

'Eminently Qualified'

Spelts said, "I know nothing of Sen. Marvel's political ambitions—he is eminently qualified—but his ambitions are known only to himself."

Asked if he meant eminently qualified for governor, Spelts replied, "Eminently qualified to run for anything—he's a tremendous student of government."

He added, however, that NSCC-AIN was "not promoting Marvel for governor in any way, shape or form."

Olin Mathieson, Other Firms Are Indicted For Kickbacks

New York (UPI) — Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. and two other firms were indicted Thursday on charges of concealing kickbacks and commissions on the sale of drugs which were purchased with U.S. foreign aid funds.

A 24-count federal grand jury indictment alleged that the defendants failed to report to the government more than $150,000 in kickbacks and other payments on the sale of $1.5 million worth of drugs to South Viet Nam and Cambodia.

Also named in the indictment were Philipp Bauer Co., Inc., of New York, listed as an agent for Olin, its president Kenneth B. Bauer; Herberg G. Wolf of Hong Kong, named as a former regional vice president of Olin, and Far East International Corp. of New York...

Olin Mathieson said in a statement:

"As far as Olin is concerned this indictment is absolutely groundless."

It said that the company was not a party to any of the sales and that the firm received no government funds from them.

"Philipp Bauer Co. has never been an agent for Olin and, until Thursday, we never heard of Far East International Corp.," the statement said. The company said it may have been a victim of a fraud.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said that Wolf set up Far East International as a dummy export company with his wife as president. Morgenthau said that kickbacks were made by Bauer to Wolf and that Olin paid commissions in turn to Bauer.

The alleged conspiracy to defraud the government had been going on since March, 1958, Morgenthau said.

NFO Questioning Chamber's Attitude

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Star Staff Writer

Comstock — The state president of the National Farmers Organization asked Thursday whether the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's attitude of making "second-class citizens out of farmers" is being invoked in Nebraska.

Bryce Bartu of Comstock questioned the position of Earl Luff of Lincoln, representing the State Chambers of Commerce and Associated Industries of Nebraska, who testified Wednesday in support of LB452.

The bill — to "extend protection against picketing and other forms of coercion to farming and ranching enterprises" — was advaced to the floor of the Legislature by a 5-1 vote of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee.

Principal introducer of the bill is Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City.

Bartu asked: "Do we correctly interpret Mr. Luff's stand that he is against the farmer's speaking up for higher agricultural income and to impress on the general public the need for a financially strong agriculture?"

Bartu asked that Luff clarify his support LB452. Luff had testified that "no one dreamed the problems which have faced the agricultural industry in recent months would ever come about."

The state NFO chief said: "If Luff is criticizing NFO members for withholding livestock from market and telling the story of the farmer's being caught in the cost-price squeeze on Main Street, he is taking his cue from those who have shown more interest in big business than in Nebraska's main industry, agriculture."

Changing Colleges' Name Held

A bill to change the names of the 4 state teachers colleges drew no opposition at a public hearing before the Legislature's Education Committee Thursday but the measure was held for a check of other features.

Under LB564, what is now designated by law as the "Nebraska State Teacher College at Chadron" would become "Chadron State College." The same change would apply to the colleges at Kearney, Peru and Wayne.

Of two other bills heard, one was killed and one was advanced.

Reported out 6-0 was LB562, introduced by Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper, which would make it permissive rather than mandatory for schools to display exhibits at county fairs.

'Impractical'

The mandatory exhibits are impractical in larger counties with many and big schools, the committee was told.

Killed 4-1 was LB561, which would have revised present law requiring annual teachers institutes.

LB561 was supported by several county superintendents but was opposed by spokesman for rural area school boards, including representatives of the Nebraska School Improvement Association.

The bill would have substituted "in-service education programs" for the so-called institutes, would have eliminated a $1 registration fee for participating teachers, and would have increased the amount of county appropriation in support of the in-service education programs.

Superintendents indicated the present institute system is not practical in counties where large school systems are involved.

S. H. Brauer Jr., representing the NSIA, declared the bill corrects none of the problems which exist under the present law.

Stocks Take Stiff Setback

New York (AP)—The stock market took its stiffest setback in 11 weeks Thursday and closed February trading with the first montly decline since September.

The market opened on a declining note and, except for a weak, brief attempt at a rally around mid-day, slid to its lowest level at the close.

Brokers said a combination of profit taking from the long advance and uncertainties over international and domestic developments triggered the selling.

The Associated Press 60-stock average dropped 2.7 to 251.9 with industrials of 4.1, rails off 1.3 and utilities off 1.3.

Based on the decline in this average, an estimated $3.8 billion was clipped from the quoted values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.86 to 662.94, its sharpest decline since last Oct. 19.

Of 1,320 issues traded, 912 declined and 194 advanced. New 1962-63 highs totaled 38 and new lows 11.

Volume rose to 4.11 million shares from 3.7 million Wednesday.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks declined and three advanced. MGM was unchanged.

Prices were lower on the American Stock Exchange. Volume of 1 million shares equalled Wednesday's total.

Grains Post Good Gains

Chicago (AP)—Failure of tenders on March contracts to come out in more than moderate amounts induced renewed buying in the grain futures market Thursday and all commodities on the Board of Trade posted substantial gains.

Advances ran to a cent or more in all pits except corn. Net gains there were only slightly less on the March and May deliveries.

Wheat finished 1⅛ cents a bushel higher to ¼ lower, March $2.06⅞-07; corn ⅜-⅞ higher, March $1.18⅝-¾; oats unchanged to 1¼ higher, March 74⅝-¾; rye ¼-1 cent higher, March $1.34; soybeans ⅝-1⅝ higher, March $2.64¼-⅞.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Election Of Wilson Might Impair Free World Unity

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

It is enlightening in appraising the shape of things to come to recognize that there is political blue sky as well as financial blue sky.

This was brought home recently in a speech by Harold Wilson, head of the British Labor Party, who aspires by the Autumn of 1964 to replace Harold Macmillan, the Conservative, as British Prime Minister. In the lingo of public affairs, Wilson is usually deemed to be left of center, and he seeks to create the image of being sensitive to humanitarian aims.

Shortly after being selected as new Labor Party leader, Wilson in a TV interview asserted that he was closer to the U.S. policies of the Kennedy Administration than Prime Minister Macmillan. This observation presumably was based on the theoretical fact that President Kennedy and the Laborites tend to talk in a similar vein about the obsolescence of colonialism. But in a subsequent speech, Wilson revealed a basic difference. Contrary to the policy of the United States under Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy against recognition of East Germany, Wilson proposed recognition of the Communist puppet state of East Germany and approval of the German-Polish frontier.

In view of recent growing evidence of disunity in the West, such as the dissident policy of De Gaulle of France and Diefenbaker of Canada on atomic policy, the possibility that the man who may conceivably become the next Prime Minister of our closest ally, Great Britain, might differ with us on Germany entails serious implications. Technically, the forthcoming British election, when called, will be an internal matter, but the impact of the decision of the voters on the unity of the free world concerns all members of the Nato alliance.

Oppositon Mounts

The series of by elections in great Britain and recent polls show mounting opposition to the Macmillan policies. But, in weighing future prospects and their bearing on trade and security trends, it is well to keep in mind that the Labor Party may have suffered an irreparable loss in the untimely death of Hugh Gaitskell, the economist who achieved so much in unifying its thinking. As long as Wilhis party and modernizing its thinking. As long as Wilson's views were only vaguely known, he had more appeal than any of the other survivors among Gaitskell's colleagues, but, as he is smoked out and puts his views more definitively forward, he may begin to antagonize groups and narrow his support. One possible result will be to swell the vote of the Liberal Party in Great Britain as a means of censuring the Conservatives without voting for Socialism.

From a long term historic perspective, there has been confusion of thought by Leftist groups. They envision themselves as humane, yet the suggestion of adding to the prestige of the illiberal police state known as East Germany is at variance with the tradition of freedom. During World War I such sentiment was deprecated as an expression of a desire for "peace at any price." The great dilemma of our times springs from the fact that no sane person wants to bring on nuclear war, yet the collateral danger is that the Communist dictators will always probe to see how much we will tolerate in light of our disinclination to use our nuclear power. As President Kennedy has correctly pointed out repeatedly, these are dangerous times fraught with risk. Nevertheless, Kennedy risked confrontation last October when he insisted that the Soviet Union take rockets and bombers out of Cuba.

With our huge military budget, on which much employment depends, there is academic fear that this country is unprepared for the outbreak of peace. While obviously serious adjustments would occur in the transition from the present status of a garrison state—if disarmament were arranged, the psychological effect of a vision of a sustained period of genuine peace would be to usher in a boom of unprecedented proportions. While the time for such a change may still be far off, it is not too early for men of foresight to develop plans for such a contingency. Already the centralized governmental planners are busy in this area. It is desirable for personalities in private enterprise to contemplate research and development plans for such a change.

Insistence Justified

The insistence of the United States on inspection in the closed economies behind the Iron Curtain if armaments are to be curtailed is thoroughly justified. It would be suicidal to trade military superiority for treaties (mere pieces of paper). There would, however, be less need of ironclad guarantees if an internal revolution, either gradual or precipitate, put the resources of the Communist nations under popular, democratic control. Such a change, though not yet discernible, is certainly not beyond the realm of possibility. The giant steps which the Soviet Union has been making toward educating its citizenry is inconsistent with perpetuation of the dictatorship. In a sense, Stalin was more consistent than Khrushchev. As a means of implementing the police state, Stalin opposed all human rights. Khrushchev's effort to liberalize the restrictions may in a longer historic sense prove to be the beginning of the end of the dictatorship.

The intellectual lesson gleaned from observation of the behavior of the stock market is that little is permanent in life except change. The management philosophy in this country is not to be static, but represents an adjustment to the continuous adoption of new and better ideas and techniques. The huge research and developments expenditures in this country attest the desire of business management to be at the forefront of change—and not the victims of the march of technological progress.

With the modernization of the machinery and methods in the Common Market, Japan and elsewhere, American employers, facing a higher hourly money wage rate, must accelerate the process of improvement of methods in order to get unit costs low enough to survive the new international competition.

NSIA To Ask No-Accrediting Policy Dropping

The Nebraska School Improvement Association (NSIA) plans to ask the State Board of Education next Tuesday to abandon its policy of refusing to accredit newly-formed Class 6—rural high school—districts.

S. H. Brauer Jr. of Stuart, NSIA executive secretary, said the board's present policy is circumventing legislative intent to permit the formation of new Class 6 districts.

A Class 6 district offers high school education only and is superimposed on cooperating rural grade school districts.

Earlier this week 13 Hall County and 3 Merrick County rural districts filed petitions for establishing a new Class 6 district. Petitions for a new Class 6 district also have been circulated in Dawson County on the heels of Cozad's announced intention to bar pupils from outside the districts.

Buyers May Pay Livestock Prices On Actual Weight

Buyers would pay a price based on actual weight at the time of sale in cases where livestock are purchased by weight under terms of a bill advanced by the agriculture committee Thursday.

The measure was LB485, introduced by Sen. Terry Carpentar of Scottsbluff.

The committtee also advanced another Carpenter measure, LB445, eliminating the need to obtain cattle slaughtering permits.

There was no opposition to either measure.
